A CRAZED ANARCHIST.

Ernest Hertsen Threntens the Life of Chilean Consul Steffen. CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The police of this city have been instructed to look out for Ernest Hertzen, who, on Sun-day afternoon, made an attempt to day afternoon, made an attempt to shoot Matthew J. Steffen, the Chilean Consul for Chicago. Hertzen is said to bean Anarchist and, besides, it is said, is not in his right mind. He was at one time amployed by Steffen and, while working for him, fell desperately in love with his employer's daughter. He was discharged for making a speech in which he said the killing of Mayor Carter Harrison was a good thing and that he would like to embrace Prendergast and kiss him. A short time ago Mrs. Steffen received a letter from Hertzen, in which he asked her to meet him at a given place. The letter was unanswered and another came. In the second, Hertzen declared his love for the young lady, said he could not live without her and that he had determined to make her his wife. A few days after this Steffen received a letter threatening his life, and Sunday afternoon Hertzen went to the Steffen home to carry out his threat. He would doubtless have succeeded but for the fact that Steffen, looking through the glass in his front door, saw Hertzen crouching on the steps with a revolver in his hand. The would-be slayer rang the bell several times and, receiving no answer, doubtless made up his mind that no one was at home, for he went away. Steffen then slipped out the back way and notified the police. ot Matthew J. Steffen, the Chile

Talks About America.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Keir Hardie, the English Socialist, and Frank Smith, M. P., were tendered a supper last night by the Chicago Socialists prior to their taking final leave of this city. "I like America," said Hardie, speaking as if the United States comprised the entire continent. "I have been here some time and have heard and read much about the corruption of city councils, yet after careful study I have come to the conclusion that English and American city councils find their way to the same hell. The English aldermen and counciliors work in a quieter way. I know of a mayor who turned his concern into a company so that he could get contracts for municipal work in England. I know common councilmen who have relatives who simply represent themselves when contracts involving large sums of money are awarded by city councils It is the same in America, though it is done more openly here. Yet they both travel the same way to the loss of the city they misrepresent."

Hardie said he had found the Socialists strong in the United States, but they lacked organization. He predicted the downfall of the Populist party after the coming campaign.

THE ALASKAN SURVEY.

superintendent Duffield Think WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—"The peo-ple of Juneau may possess their souls in peace," said Superintendent Duffield of the Coast and Geodetic Systems to the possibilities of that city being included in English territory, "if the results of our survey of the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions as far as made may be accepted as assurance. They seem to be unnecessarily worked up over the situation. They should know that the com-unnecessarily worked up over the situation. They should know that the commissioners, acting in behalf of this country and Great Britain, will have no voice in the final determination of the dispute, as it will be settled by the high officials of the Foreign Affairs offices of the two countries. The mission of the commissioners is to furnish data on which these functionaries can reach a conclusion, and it is with this end in viaw that our engineers have been in the field this summer and last.

"If our line is accepted, Juneau will fall many miles within the American line. Of course, if Engiand's claim as to the location of the dividing line, running it through Clarence Braits and Bachran Channel and compruing the ten marine leagues specified in the treaty from the outer shore of the islands along the coast instead of the mainland, is recognized, Juneau would probably be in danger of becoming a British town. But I do not see how, in face of the facts, such a settlement can be reached, and I do not believe there is any great danger that the matter will be determined on this basis."

Gen. Duffield also says that practically all the gold district of the Yukon River lies within American territory, as determined by the work of the American surveyors. Furthermore, he thinks the prospects are good for the United States holding Chilcat Pass, the possession of which is regarded as of importance, as it is the gateway of much of the interior country of the Northwest.

Railroad Wreck in Pennsylvania.

ALTOONA (Pa.,) Oct. 24.—On the Pennsylvania Railway at Newport this morning a disabled car on the eastbound freight train jumped the track just as the mail train reached that point. The locomotive and tender were hurled into the canal, and the postal and freight cars were piled up over the wreck. Engineer Willkil and Fireman Haines were instantly killed. Eight of the postal clerks were injured. C. A. Chamberlain of Harrisburg is reported as fatally injured. Four mail cars took fire, and, together with a large amount of mail, were burned.

GIBSONBURG (O.) Oct. 24.—Two squares of twenty buildings, including about all the business places, were burned last night. The Toledo department arrived at 2:45 o'clock in the morning, and saved much property. The loss was $250,000 to $300,000.

The Lieutenant-Governor in Law and in Politics.

Spencer Gurdon Millard was born in Ionia county, Mich., about 1856. His father was G. J. Millard. His grandfather was known as "Doctor" Millard, and served in the War of the Revolution. The mother of the man destined to be a lieutenant-governor died when he was but a boy. His father has since married again. He has had no brothers and only one sister, who died in India a few years ago, where she went as a missionary.

During his boyhood he entered Hillsdale College, where he studied for nearly seven years, taking a classical course and graduating from the institution in 1877. He obtained a position as principal of the Carson City, (Mich.) graded school and served in that capacity for about three years. About the year 1880 he commenced the study of law with William O. Webster, an attorney at Ionia City, and had studied it for about two years or more when he was admitted to the bar. He then became a member of the firm of Webster & Millard, in which he was engaged in practice till he came directly to Los Angeles.

Soon after his arrival he built a house on Ionia street in the Angeleno Hightist fract, which has since been his home. While in this city he practiced law alone.

One of his first public appearance in politics was at the Republican city convention in the fall of 1892 when J. L. Tufts was nominated for Mayor. His bearing as a presiding officer was dignified, his decisions were usually prompt and accurate and his voice was excellent, for it could be readily heard. He presided so acceptably that he was called to wield the gavel at the Republican county convention in May, 1894, when delegates were chosen to the State convention, which a short time later nominated him for Lieutenant-Governor.

Uncle Sam Has a Navy Which He Wants to Try on Somebody—His Children Have Adopted the Doctrine as a Faith.

TROUTAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA LONDON, Oct. 24.—(By Atlantic Ca-ble.) W. T. Stead has a long article this afternoon in the Westminster Ga-zette on "Monroeism," in which he "Englishmen will do well not to be-little the significance of the ebuiltion of American sentiment on the question of the Venezuelan frontier. It must be of the Venezuelan frontier. It must be taken with the usual discount, and is no doubt due to the system by which foreign affairs are discussed by bawl-ing journalists, rather than by suave diplomats; but it is serious, neverthe-less. Its gravity consists in two facts, neither of which has anything to do with the merits of the question in dispute. In the first place, for the first time since the civil war the Americans have built a navy of which they have some reason to be proud, and which, sooner or later they will use against some-body. In the second place, it is equally significant that the American press assures the United States that the Monroe doctrine has been informally adopted as a national faith by the American people, and the dissent to the New York World (referring to the report of the Bayard-Salisbury interreport of the Bayard-Salisbury interwiew) probably has a basis of truth.

"Considering the disreputable character of the Venezueian government, it acter of the Venezuelan government, it seems extraordinary that any civilized power should contemplate such a crime as trusting a peaceable region under the rule or government of Spanish-American adventurers, whose only claim to the sympathy of the United States is that they call their anarchy a republic and fly a flag which does not fly outside the Western Hemisphere. We do not fear arbitration, but before the pigns reparation must be made for the high-handed violation of the territory governed by England."

CUTTING OFF COURTESIES. WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Apparently the British authorities feel they have gone as far as prudence and courtesy permits in assisting in the education of our naval constructors, for the Navy Department has been notified that hereafter no American naval officers will be permitted to take the course at the Greenwich Royal School of Naval Architecture, a privilege which has been enjoyed by them for many years, with such benefit that they have usually graduated at or near the end of their classes. The Glasgow school and that at Paris, however, are still open to our young constructors, and with the opening of the Cornell course of naval architecture, the Navy Department feels it can get along very well.

when the news came that he was elected, he was heard to remark that he felt very well, and, barring a slight hoarseness, this appeared to be his condition. He had, it is said, not had a physician for twenty years, and his robust constitution seemed to have withstood the strain of the campaign without perceptible injury.

Shortly before the time of assembling of the Legislature last January Mr. Millard was taken ill with an attack of grip, and this developed into pneumonia. He was ill at home for about two months and then went to Indio in hope of recovering his lost health. Afterward he came back to this city and during the latter part of June went East to the home of his father, who now lives in the northern part of Michigan.

During the first week in September he returned to California accompanied by his cousin, J. B. Millard, who is principal of the Spring-street school. He remained in Northern California, spending most of the time at Shasta Springs near Dunsmuir, until Sunday afternoon, when he left Dunsmuir for Southern California.

Mr. Millard was married at Ionia City to Miss Ida Hall about two years before he left for California. Two children have been born to them, one being a boy of 8 years and the other a girl i years of age. ALL PERFECTLY LOVELY. No discourtesy was intended. Bayard, in accordance with the diplomatic custom, awaits Lord Salisbury's answer to his dispatch regarding Venezuela, and does not need to personally attend until the answer is forthcoming. Lord Salisbury will possibly send an answer to day. Perfectly friendly relations exist between the two countries.

CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Resolutions Adopted Denouncing the Outrages Against Armenians. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPOIRT.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The national conference of Unitarian and other Christian churches today adopted resolutions protesting against the outrages committed against Armenians under Turkish misrule, and affirming the responsibility of the powers to secure governmental reform, better administration of justice in the courts, and the enjoyment of perfect liberty of conscience. The annual election resulted in the re-election of United States Senator Hoar of Massachusetts as president; Rev. W. D. Moorehouse of New York, as general secretary; William Howell Reed of Boston, as treasurer, and the following vice-president: United States Commissioner of Labor, Corroll D. Wright of Massachusetts. Thomas J. Morris of Baltimore, Norman B. Eaton of New York, Roger Davis of San Francisco, and Daniel L. Shorey of Chicago.

The depiction of the nature of God and his relation to man was framed in a series of addresses. The Rev. Howard N. Brown of Boston said the Holy Spirit was really God manifest in the mind and soul of man and that the basis of belief is the consciousness and experience of the race. Rev. William C. Cannette of Rochester, N. Y., sought to show that God and man are in essence one. He advocated man's right to freedom of thought and said all 'theologies are but kindergarten statements and not final words.

The Rev. W. Hanson Pulsford of Waltism, Mass., spoke of atonement and the Rev. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City, Iowa, reviewed the actual effect of forgiveness, saying it did not remove the mental consequences of misdeeds, but merely showed a continuance of divine love. The Rev. W. I. Lawrence of Meadville, Pa., formerly a missionary in China, made an eloquent plea for the maintenance of the Japan mission. He deprecated the efforts made to discontinue this charge on account of the large outlay required and said its failure would mean denominational disgrace and the heralding of the failure of liberal religious faith in solutions Adopted Denouncing the Outrages Against Armenians. "The mining laws of this State were enacted for the protection of the weak and poor. The other, who is strong, can take care of himself. These coal miners are sometimes ignorant of their rights, always poor and dependent and cannot manifest their dissatisfaction with objectionable conditions prevailing around the mines without risking their jobs. You are, therefore, appointed by the State to do for them what they cannot do for themselves. I therefore insist that in inspecting mines you do so without permitting the operators or their representatives to accompany you. Make your inspection thorough and independent and without their aid. After you have done so, find out from the men if there is any ground for complaint among them. "I further wish to say that there have been entirely too many accidents, not that there have been more within the past few years than formerly, but I mean to say there were some accidents that should have been avoided."

It is regarded at Shanghai as certain that Russia will permanently occupy Korea. The Shanghai dispatch also says the situation is most grave, and preparations for an expected struggle are visible on all sides, but it is hoped a solution of the difficulty will be found in Russla and Japan agreeing to divide Korea.

A SIGNIFICANT MOVE WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.-The cable reports that a Russian fleet of fifteen reports that a Russian fleet of fifteen vessels was on its way to Korea, attracted much attention among the diplomatic representatives of the East to which it was shown. It is regarded as presenting grave conditions, if the facts as reported are true. The fact that Fusan is one of the points toward which the Russians are heading is pointed out as especially significant. Fusan is at the southeasterly extremity of Korea, and is the point nearest to Japan, being only twelve hours' sail from the Japanese mainland.

Further north is Won-San, the strategic point in Korea, which the Russians have long sought to secure. It is on Broghton's Bay, in the cast of Korea. The bay is the only useful harbor in the stretch of 500 miles along the east coast of Korea. The harbor is perfectly sheltered, and is open the year around. Leading authorities agree that twill ultimately be the terminus of the Transsiberian Railway which Russia is building. For these reasons the movewas on its way to Korea, at-dispatch from Hong Kong, the Times says this morning:

THE RUSSO-CHINA TREATY. LONDON, Oct. 24.-The Times' Hong-LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Times' Hong-kong correspondent learns from a reliable source that by. the recently-concluded Russo-China treaty Russia obtains rights to anchor her fleet at Port Arthur and to construct and work from Russian administration railways from Nertchinsk and Tsitsihar to Vladivostock and from Tsitsihar to Port Arthur, together with other commercial advantages, to which the most favorednations clause is not applicable. But the Chinese reserve the option to purchase the railways twenty years hence at a price to be arranged hereafter.

"Our correspondent has close relations with men who are able to peneticate beneath the surface of things. His startling news, therefore, cannot be disregarded, even, as is too probable, though it be followed by an official denial. Russia cannot possibly imagine that the great powers will view with indifference such a destruction of the balance of power which is almost unparalleled in its audacity. China's option to purchase the railways is a jest almost too cynical to find a place in any serious diplomatic transaction. Under the indicated conditions, Manchuria would practically become a Russian province, while Peking would be within Russia's grip.

Among the speakers was Representative J. D. Richardson of Tennessee, who responded to the toast, "The President of the United States."

In the course of his remarks he said: "Pardon me, however, if I add we hold in the highest regard and greatest favor that unwritten but none the less sacred portion of that instrument which extends its imperial aegis to distant Madagascar and there protects its humble subject, though he be a little 'off-color' and ex-consul, and which holds out a helping hand to struggling patriots in the Island of Cuba in their efforts to be free from the oppression and tyranny of an effete monarchy of the Old World, and which speaks the word which insures safety and asylum for our brethren of the 'Mystic Tie' in far-off Japan; and, lastly, which says firmly, if not definitely, to John Bull himself and all the monarchs of Europe that while you may rend asunder, dismantle and aggrandize the provinces and territories there if you will, you shall not lay your unholy hands on one foot of soil beyond your present holdings in the Western Hemisphere, whether it be in Northern or South America."

Little, the head brakeman of the train, was thrown from the smoking-car and severely injured about the head and chest. The mail-clerk of the train and a traveling man were bruised, and nearly all the passengers badly shaken up.

The train is run in reversed order from St. Joseph to Kansas City. The sleeping-car is next to the engine, then comes the chair-car, the smoker, the bagsage and express-cars. This is to avoid switching at Kansas City. Just north of Waldron was the broken switch. The engine, sleeper and chair-car passed over it in safety, but the smoker, baggage and express-cars left the track. They bounced along for several feet, and finally turned completely over.

The delegates-at-large to the national convention will be named by the same State convention that nominates the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. A national convention in May would, therefore, precipitate an early State convention, and a long and exhaustive State compaign. This and other matters were discussed. At the dinner of the Republican leaders the following were present: Quay, Platt, Clarkson, Carter and Filley of St. Louis.

The National Committee's meeting at Washington on December 10 will, it is said, have much to do toward directing the policy of the Republicans to be pursued at Washington this winter on the tariff schedules. THE CHAMPION TO RETIRE.

HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 24.—Brady announced today that Corbett and party will depart for New York tomorrow at 3 o'clock, and Corbett will announce to the world his retirement from pugilism forever. This decision was arrived at today, inasmuch as Julian left this city this morning without coming to any agreement as to who shall referee the contest, and gave no assurance that his $10,000 side stake would be posted in the hands of a responsible party by noon tomorrow. Julian said Fitzsimmons would be in this city on October 31 ready and willing to fight Corbett, and that the $10,000 would be posted in due time, so opinions as to Corbett's departure vary. Julian says that upon his arrival here with Fitzsimmons that if Corbett is not in the city they will follow him up. CLEVELAND (O.,) Oct. 24.—The world's record-breaker on the Lake Shore Railway passed through Cleveland at 8:50 o'clock this morning en route from Chicago to New York. It consisted of a locomotive and three Wagner vestibuled cars. The party consisted of Dr. H. Walter Webb, third vice-president of the New York Cen-tral, who on September 11 lowered the vice-president of the New York Central, who on September 11 lowered the world's record on that line; his secretary, Mr. Leonard, official timekeeper of the run; Superintendent W. H. Conniff of the Lake Shore; A. M. Smith, general passenger agent; E. Handy, chief engineer; Assistant General Superintendent Blodgett, S. P. Gage, chief clerk to the general superintendent, and E. B. Cook, chief clerk to Blodgett.

The train left Lake Shore station at Chicago promptly at 3:30 o'clock, pulled by a mogul engine. Every arrangement had been made to expedite the run. The switches were spiked. All trains were sidetracked for the flyer. Across Illinois prairies, through Michigan farms and along smooth stretches bordering on Lake Erie the flyer sped like a meteor through the night. Brief stops were made at Hillsdale and Toledo to change engines, and Cleveland was reached at $:50:30 o'clock, or 320 minutes out of Chicago. The distance from Chicago to Cleveland by the Lake Shore is 357 miles, so the entire trip, including stops, was made at the rate of a mile in 53\(\frac{1}{2}\). Engines were changed at Collinswood in about 29 seconds, and the train rushed on again.

THE DUNRAVEN INTERVIEWS. United Press Fakes Exposed by th GEOGLAR ASSOCIATED PIESS REPORT.)

United Press Fakes Exposed by the New York Herald.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The New York Herald has published an article signed by its yachting expert, A. G. McVey, reflecting strongly upon the "fakes" of the United Press, during the course of which that crumbling organization is handled as follows:

"As Lord Dunraven, in his last communication to the America's Cup Committee, said there was no need for further comment anent the cup races of 18%, there was great surprise manifested in yachting circles on this side on account of the interviews which were sent from England to this country during the last three days. In these interviews Lord Dunraven was put down as finding fault with everything, and he was said to be actually in the sulks.

"The interviews were recabled to En-down as finding fault with everything, and he was said to be actually in the sulks.

"The interviews were recabled to England, and came to the notice of Lord Dunraven on Monday. As soon as the latter read them he lost no time in contradicting the cable stories, for he immediately cabled his American representative in this city, H. Maitland Kersey, authorizing the latter to deny all the interviews in toto. Lord Dunraven, in his cable to Mr. Kersey, says: "The interviews are wholly bogus. I never talked in any such way, nor have I uttered a word about the cup races to any one in England. In fact, I have refused to say anything."
"Lord Dunraven does not know for a certainty whether the interview with Watson, which recently appeared in the Glasgow Citizen, is true or not, but if Watson has been treated as he has, then Lord Dunraven presumed that the interview with Watson is also false. Lord Dunraven evidently wants to be put right before the American people, and at the earliest moment possible. Yachtsmen will be pleased to learn from Lord Dunraven himself that no such interviews ever took place, because they were in such tone that they would do no good to yachting.

"The maker-up of the bogus inter-

"The maker-up of the bogus interviews, whether in England or this country, only throws discredit upon himself, for, with cables between the two countries, it is only a question of five hours for positive denials."

"CHEWING THE RAG."

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The attempts of the United Press to explain its course the United Press to explain its course in sending out the alleged utterances of Lord Dunraven, which the latter states were never expressed by him, is not meeting with much success here and the "interviews" are emphasized by the press as "bogus." The news organization has not ventured to mention Dominick Kemp's name in any of the letters it has addressed to the English press. Before Lord Dunraven's denial appeared, Kemp wrote to the United Press protesting against the distortion by that organization of his statement, and in a written card to the Associated Press today, Dixon Kemp says:
"Lord Dunraven did not say that the New York Yacht Club knows perfectly well that Mr. Rose's challenge is not an English one and one of the other remarks which I made was attributed to Lord Dunraven by the United Press."
But the main point is that Lord Dunraven.

But the main point is that Lord Dunraven repudiates the whole thing. Charles D. Rose is evidently furious concerning the affair and refuses to talk to any one on the subject:

George L. Watson, the designer, had a conference today with Lord Dunraven.
The Yachtsman today, commenting upon the fake interviews of the United Press with Lord Dunraven, eays: "It remains for the Yankee pressman located in London to carry off the palm for lying. Lord Dunraven was credited with saying all that the United Press thought he should have said, but did not."

The Yachting World, alluding to the The Yacnting world, and the same subject, remarked: "Since his arrival in London, Lord Dunraven has been besieged by newspapers from the meas lownward, and has positively re same subject, remarked: "Since his sarrival in London, Lord Dunraven has been besieged by newspapers from the Times downward, and has positively refused to say anything in regard to the past or the future. Our American friends, however, would not be denied, and on Monday gave prominence to an alleged interview in which Lord Dunraven says very harsh things about his treatment in New York, and the action of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. It is needless to say that a prompt denial of the whole story was forthcoming on Tuesday, Lord Dunraven denying being interviewed by any one."

Dixon Kemp is very indignant at the whole matter. He says he did not call upon Lord Dunraven with the object of interviewing hmi for the United Press, but simply as an act of courtesy. In response to the United Press's request he gave them a portion of the conversation, interspersed, he continued, "with marks of my own in the same tenor as those I published in the Field, and which they (the United Press) turned into an interview by putting my remarks into Lord Dunraven's mouth."

Later in the day Lord Dunraven sent to the press copies of the telegrams which passed between himself and Louis Moore, the London manager of the United Press. Moore first telegraphed to Lord Dunraven asking his lordship to inform him if his disclaimer of the "interview" was authorized by him, as it was calculated to do the United Press ome damage. Lord Dunraven replied:

"Yes; the disclaimer was authorized by me and is correct.

(Signed)

Moore then asked: "Do you object to only the statements that the New York Yacht Club knew perfectly well that C. D. Rose's challenge was not an English one and that the Victoria Club was sorry for having backed it? Dixon Kemp says now that these remarks are his; but that the rest of the interview is correct. I have already printed Kemp's letter in America, making the correction indicated."

To this Lord Dunraven answered:

"I adhere to my former statement view is correct. I have already printed Kemp's letter in America, making t or any person professing to act in their behalf. I had several conversations with Dixon Kemp, not as a journalist, but as a friend. If he made any use of any remarks I made to him by publishing them, or put forward any views as mine, it was entirely unauthorized, without my knowledge and a gross breach of confidence. I have not authorized Dixon Kemp to say that I only object to certain parts of the interview. He had no right to make any assertion on my behalf.

The Post further denfes that anything passed between Lord Duaraven and Rose, either by conversation or by correspondence, to lead to the withdrawal of the challenge.

Crack Shots Competing at Baltimor for the Championship. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
BALTIMORE (Md.,) Oct. 24.—Sportsmen and crack shots from all parts of the country began today to shoot for the Dupont trophy, a fat purse and the world's championship. At the opening of the match, which began at 10 o'clock, there were fifty-one entries at $25 cach, making the total money $1295 to be divided; 40 per cent. to the winner, 20 per cent. to the second, 20 per cent. to the third and 10 per cent. to the fourth. The Handicap Committee has fixed the distances at thrity-three yards for Capt. Jack Brewer, down to twenty-five yards for those whose records are not so good. Each man will shoot at twenty-five birds and no division of first money will be allowed. All ties are required to be shot off.

Darkness stopped the match after each of the contestants had shot at eleven birds. It will be finished tomorrow. Twelve of the shooters have killed straight birds thus far and the match promises to be worthy of the big stakes the men are contesting for.

The birds were a well-selected and unusually strong lot of blue rocks and the atmospheric conditions are right to make them hard to hit. Capt. Brewer, who is the favorite in the betting, shot in magnificent form. Following are those who killed all their birds: D. A. Upson, D. M. Porterfield, Allen Willey, E. B. Coe, William Wagner, J. L. "On Saturday, September 7, Lord Dunraven communicated to the Cup Committee his belief that the Defender Committee his belief that the Defender had salled the day's race immersed three or four inches more than when she was measured. "The Cup Committee ordered a remeasurement. On September 8, the work was warked as required by the control of the c measurement. On September 8, the yachts were marked as required by Lord Dunrayen; at the same time they were remeasured with the result of only one-eight of an inch in low-water mark increase of the Defender, and one-sixteenth of an inch in the Valkyrie. As the result varied time allowance only a second or two, and in no way affected the outcome of the races, it is not deemed necessary to give additional measurements."

The following resolution was adopted:
"That a cup be presented to the owners of the Defender in recognition of their usual defense of the America's cup in the recent match, and that a cup be also presented to George Gould as an expression of the club's appreciation of his generous and sportsmanlike action in putting the Vigilant in commission and placing her at the disposal of the club."

A Taupou is a queen of a village, of such nobility as to be the wife of a chief, and is one of those few persons in Samoa entitled to wear a necklace of whale's teeth. The Taupou of Vainla is the prettiest of Samoan women. The village in which she holds high rink is the one in the midst of which the American consulate at Apla is located. This girl, who speaks English and French, has had the strange fortune to be loved by the King of Samoa, Malletoa, and also by the rebel Prince, Tamasese.

Tamasese, the Prince, was the first of the rivals to make his love known to the girl. He sent her presents, but was rejected. To make his hatred of the present government stronger, King Malletoa became enamored of the same beautiful Taupou. The King, though, has an incumbrance, for he was married some years ago. There is a native custom that came in handliy in this emergency, however, for a Samoa whis

When Malletoa attempted to set aside his wife a month ago, he found difficulties. What happened then is the talk of all the islands, and may, before the clouds clear away, cause another war. The Queen refused to be set aside. This emulation of Catherine of Aragon produced a sensation in Samoa. Nothing of the sort had been heard of before. The Queen, however, declared that she had been married to the King by missionaries and would not leave him. Manetoa, accompanied by his advisors, had gone so far as to pay visits by night to the mother of the Taupou of Vaiala, but now the threatened vengeance of the Queen has stopped even this. The Queen and the lovely Taupou do not speak as they pass by, and the King and the rebel prince may meet in do not speak as they pass by, and the King and the rebel prince may meet in deadly combat before the romance is ended. Tamasese is the son of the man once declared King by the Germans, and his pretense to the throne once before involved the country in war. Now he has another reason.

CHOLERA AND THE BRITISH HONOLULU, Oct. 17.—Wired from San Francisco, October 24.) The Board of Health has lifted the quarantine and Honolulu is once more a clean port. Samoan Politics.

APIA, Oct. 2.—(Wired from San Francisco October 24.) The political situation here remains unchanged, the rebel party maintaining a default attitude and refusing to pay taxes. The loyal party make this failure an excuse for the mon-payment of their own taxes, and public funds are low. Several of the rebel natives have been making trouble and refusing to allow foreign claimants who have tracts of land awarded to them by the land commission and the Supreme Court to occupy such land. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the offenders, but it will not be possible to enforce such warrants unless the assistance of the foreign warships is granted.

The important case of Wellman Neylan and Hobbs of San Francisco against the National Bank of New Zealand and others, involving the title to many thousand acres of valuable land in Samoa, has just been decided by Chief Justice Ide, after a leigthy trial. The property involved is the so-called American land chaims, which have been a subject of controversy for twenty years or more. The decision holds the American claims to be the first in right and secures all the lands to the plaintiffs, provided their interests, to be proven by further evidence, are sufficient to absorb all the Tanda, but if the property is more than sufficient to satisty all American claims, then the surplus is to go to the defendants.

The old method of doing business was to sell from on board cars at the shipping point, or to consign to dealers in the various cities. We shall have our agents in all the large East-ern cities. This is not a combination to govern prices at all, but a combination of growers to market our own product and get the most out of them. Our or-ange crop this year will amount to abou-nine thousand cars or 2,700,000 boxes, while we will have 400,000 cases of lem-ons. OPENING ARGUMENT FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Dist.-Atty. Pelxoto Likens the lecused to Another "Jack the Ripper."

a Living Me.

Florence Blythe Hinckley

MEGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS VEFORE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Asst.—Dist.—Atty. Pelxoto today made the opening argument for the prosecution in the trial of Theodore Durrant. When court convened Gen. Dickinson asked that Miss Cunningham be recalled, but she was only, asked a few unimportant questions, and was then excused. The remainder of the day was occupied by Pelxoto. He discussed the evidence in the case from the time Durrant accompanied Miss Lamont to school on the morning of April 3, until he appeared before Organist King in Emanuel Baptist Church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, pale, trembling and excited. He noon, pale, trembling and excited. He closed by asking the jury to uphold the laws of the State by rendering a ver-dict of guilty, and fixing the penalty at dict of guilty, and fixing the penalty at death.

During Peixoto's argument the courtreons was crowded. Rev. J. George Gibson of Emanuel Church and his secretary. Robert N. Lynch, occupied seats hear the jury box and paid close attention to the speaker. Durrant sat stolid and indifferent in his usual place beside his attorneys, surrounded by his father and mother and a number of friends. He betrayed no emotion or feeling even when accused of murders that were compared with the crimes of "Jack, the Ripper," in the Whitechapel district of London. His mother, however, looked more thoughtful and depressed than she has at any other time since the trial began.

When Peixoto closed his argument at 3:30 o'clock, Gen. Dickinson, for the defense, asked for a continuance until Monday, in order that Attorney Deuprey might make the opening argument for the defense. He produced a certificate from Deuprey's physicians to the effect that he was unable to appear in court at present, but would probably be well enough to resume his duties on Monday. Dist.-Atty Barnes objected to the delay, and as the court was opposed to granting a continuance, the motion was denied.

In his argument, Peixoto was at all times convincing and distance.

to granting a continuance, the motion was denied.

In his argument, Peixoto was at all times convincing and often pathetic. One by one he took all of the incidents of April 3 and dwelt on the fatal significance of each to the prisoner. After tracing Durrant in company with Miss Lamont to the church door, he repeated the poem about the devil standing at the gate of hell and beckoning an angel to come down from heaven and share with him his passion and his love, "The devil and the angel enter the house of God," said he, "Come, said the devil, come hither and I will show you something you have never seen before. Into the beliry they went. There was the malden fighting against the devil for her bonor and her virtue. What was the consequence? Hands clasped the throat. The girl sasped her last in a fierce struggle, and before it can be told in words the pure soul had gone to God and Theodore Durrant had become a murderer.

can be told in words the pure soul had gone to God and Theodore Durrant had become a murderer.

"The body must be stripped. The clothes are taken off and tucked away and the body is stretched out by one accustomed to handling the dead, with the arms crossed. There, unclothed, unhonored and unsung, with no dirge but the whistling of the wind, he left her. Left her for time to wither and for age to decay. But what a mistake was there! Did he for one moment think that there was a hole deep enough or a tower high enough in this world of ours to hide that deed, that body of the innocent murdered girl? "Like the ostrich sticking its head into sand and thinking its whole body is out if sight, he started to look for crevices into which to hide the tell-take garments, hoping that when the time would come when this body would be discovered, it would be narrely a dried and unrecognizable skeleton. There were her gloves and her books, everything just as Mrs. Vogel saw her leave the school, just as Minnie Edwards as wher on the car, just as Mrs. Crosset and Mrs. Leak saw her—all were there, in the church and crying out to the defendant: "Guilty, guilty, and 'twas you alone." "In what spot in that belfry—and I

"In what spot in that belfry—and I want to make a fair opening to the defense—in what spot that girl breathed her last I cannot tell you. I can only theorize. That she was murdered about that hour, though, by this defendant we stand ready to prove. No eye but that of the dying girl saw the murderer as he strangled her. But that it was there in that beliry is apparent. But here the defense makes a point; he could have gone down by the back stairs out into the street and escaped the meeting with George King. This may seem plausible, but do not mistake the man. He is now a murderer, changed in all respects. Suppose he did come down, run into Sademan, go out into the street or see anyone else on the street, pale and disheveled, coatless and hatless, would not his condition have attracted attention? Would they not have said as King said. Why, what is the matter with you, Theodore; why are you so pale?

"A murderer takes no chances. He wants darkness. He went down by the way of the murderer. You all went through the dark place between the ceilings. Then you walked across to the back stairs. It is dark that way, you can sneak down. That is what the murderer wants. And he did sneak down. How, they ask, can a man with his hands dripping with blood, walk into the presence of George King as he sat at the piano? I'll not call for other expert testimony in this than yourselves. Is there sny more voluntary sense than that of hearing—which is more closely under our control than hearing?

"You know that you can go to the theater and segregate the instruments. You know that you can pick out a certain instrument, but one air in a chorus, in a multitude of noises, and hear and follow but the one air in a chorus, in a multitude of noises, and hear and solowed at him a moment before passing through, he told the truth.

"He stood pale, disheveled, his hair mussed, the pallor of nervous exhaustion upon his face, King says. But the defendant let slip one thing when he spoke of having met George King. He let slip, I say, for he said wh was wrung from him, and how strong a piece of evidence that would have been. But the defendant let it alip. Judge for yourselves of the import of Judge for yourselves of the import of the words.

"George King did not tell you that because he did not wish to harm this man. Well might this man have been pale after what he had gone through, and when he was called on to take down the organ he was weak. When he took the bromo-seltser, that is the time he was nauseated."

At this point Plexoto referred to the testimony and read from King's evidence, calling particular attention to that part in which King states that Durrant did not become nauseated until after he had taken the bromoseltzer.

when this defendant had committed the greatest sin in the category." he continued, "when he had imbued himself with the greatest of sins, then his entire life and acts with reference to Blanche Lamont was a living lie that has been exposed in its entirety to you. He lied when he spoke to George King in the library, He lied when he said he repaired the gas fixtures of Emanuel Church on the afternoon of April 3, and he lied again when he declared that he repaired the fixtures under the instructions of the trustees of the church."

the instructions of the trustees of the church."
Peixoto then read from the testimony given by Sademan, the janitor, paying particular attention to a statement to the effect that in the latter part of March the gas was in perfect condition, and that it needed no repair.

The testimony of the church trustees was also referred to, and it was shown by their answers that Durrant swore raisely when he testified that he repaired the electrical apparatus at the request of one of them.

"How was it that this man was up to repair the gas fixtures when, the day before, the plumbers were up there?" continued the attorney. "Why was he there when the next day the employees of the patent burners were to be there continued the attorney. "Why was he there when the next day the employees of the patent burners were to be there to fix new tips in the burners? The men who worked there have toid us that he did not fix the burners. He waited a week and a half from the time he claims to have been notified. Again, had he been there the doctors have told us that he would have been suffocated. He would have been red, not pale. We have brought before you Prof. Price, who has told you the scientific effects of gas upon the human system. His testimony was all against the defendant, and I tell you the gas that the defendant was tampering with was the life breath of Blanche Lamont. He was pale and haggard when he went down from the beliry and when he tells you it was due to gas he told you a falsehood. Science contradicts, and science is infallible.

"On the night of the day of the murder this defendant went to the church. Mrs. Noble, the aunt of Blanche Lamont, was there. Who was the first to speak to her the name of Blanche Lamont? It was Durrant. He was watching her, for he tells you he saw her pass a paper to Mrs. Moore, In his guilty soul he moved up to her. He asked about Blanche, and said he had a book to bring her. He was establishing something to prove his innocence.

asked about Blanche, and said he had a book to bring her. He was establishing something to prove his innocence. Time went on, and the girl was reported missing. Durrant joined in the search. He deprecated the work of the detectives. He said they were not doing their duty. When all had given up hope, it was left to the defendant to find, as he says the clew to Blanche Lamont. The first clew was to come from him and what an absurd one."

Peixoto then referred to the defendant's improbable story of having met a stranger on Grant avenue and Post street who informed him that Blanche Lamont was to leave on the afternoon train.

threats against his life, and he was fined $5 for being drunk and disturbing the peace.

At 7 o'clock this evening Hobart went to the livery stable, hired a horse, then went to the restaurant and had lunch put up. He then rode up in front of Miller's saloon, dismounted, walked to the door and, taking deliberate aim, fired a shot from the Winchester, the bullet taking effect in Miller's jugular yein, producing almost instant death. Hobart then mounted his horse in the presence of several bystanders and rode away. Sheriff Ruffner was immediately notified by telephone and in less than ten minutes the posse was in pursuit, but up to the present no word has been received from them.

Hobart came to Arizona about a year ago from California, and is said to have a sister living in Sacramento. The Keystone saloon, where the killing occurred, has been the scene of two tragedies in former years, two proprietors of the place at different periods having committed suicide by shooting, one of whom fell within two feet of the spot where Miller fell when shot this evening.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 24.—At the Presbyterian Synod of California today the commission to investigate the troubles of the First Church at Los Angeles reported overruling the action of the Los Angeles Presbytery in every instance, alleging that there was not sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict of the Los Angeles Presbytery, and that that body made several errors at the several hearings. The report was adopted and notice of an appeal to the General Assembly was given.

Then followed a heated discussion, a dosen members calling on the chair for recognition to give their views as to the question whether the report of the commission restored Rev. Burt Estes Howard to the pastorate. The war of words raged fierce and fast, and finally Rev. L. Robinson offered a resolution that it be the sense of the synod that the Los Angeles Presbytery recognise Rev. Burt Estes Howard as fully restored to his ministerial functions. Amid many warm expressions the synod adopted the resolution, the Los Angeles members not being permitted to vote.

The Los Angeles Presbytery members said the adoption of the resolution satisfied them, as it would be a basis for error on their appeal to the General Assembly. The synod adjourned sine die.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT)

SAN FRANCISCO. Oct. 24.—Florence Blythe Hinckley is threatened with brain trouble as a result of the years of mental worry due to the litigation over her father's millions.

For eight days Mrs. Hinckley has been shut up in her flat on Geary street, and no one has been allowed to see her save the doctor and nurse. Not even her husband is permitted to enter the house. This heroic treatment, the physician says, must continue for at least a fortnight longer.

Mrs. Hinckley is undergoing what Dr. George H. Palmer terms "the rest cure." She is not really ill, but it is feared that, after ten years of most intense mental strain, her mind will be unable to withstand the reaction which is sure to follow the closing up of the great legal battle. It is needless to say that a very speedy termination of the litigation is looked for by Mrs. Hinckley and her attorneys.

Once more there is trouble in Chinatown. Wong Wing Si, the San Francisco highbinder, who, the police say, came to Los Angeles to enforce the boy-cott of the See Yup Company on stores of the Sam Yup Company, and is one of the prime disturbers of the peace in the Chinese colony was arrested yesterday evening by Officer Robbins on the charge of vagrancy.

If what the police say is literally true, Wong Wing Si is worse than a mere vagrant. When Officer Robbins arrested him he was following the officer around as though he had cvil designs upon him. Robbins warned him to go about his business, but the highbinder heeded not the warning. Finally the officer placed him under arrest. Wong was seen to throw away something just before he was arrested, which is supposed to have been a weapon. Attorney Phibbs called at the police station shorty after Wong was incarcerated, and desired to know the amount of bail required, but was informed that no bail would be accepted. It is allegd that Wong Wing Si has stated that the See Yup Company would give $500 to have certain officers removed from the Chinatown beat, and if money would not be effective in securing their removal, there were other means.

"APRES NOUS LES DELUGE."

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The World's London cablegram says there is another international question which may be of serious moment to the United States and concerning which the recent interview with the Duke of Tetuan, the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, printed in the Paris Temps, is of striking interest. The correspondent visited him at the request of Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo, and the interview bears every mark of being authoritative.

The Duke said: "I am at a loss to comprehend how the English and French press can make themselves accomplices with the anti-European machinations of the enemies of Spain in Cuba. Today it is against you. Today it is the Spanish colony where this revolt in the West Indies has begun, but England and France have neighboring colonies of ours there. Let these two great powers be on their guard. After us their turn will infailibly come."

The Duke, judging from other expressions in the interview, obviously means to convey the idea that after Cuba, if the revolt is successful, the United States will eventually absorb all the West Indian islands.

Salt Bush at Traver.

*(San Francisco Call:) Last January the editor of the Traver Advocate secured and planted a small quantity of Australian sait bush seed. In April he made a trip to the Tulare agricultural station and got some plants, which he planted on the same land with the seed. In the last issue of his paper appears the following: "We now have at our office one of the plants grown from the seed, which measures eight fet across. We learn from our experience with the plant that the seed should be across. We learn from our experience with the plant that the seed should be planted early in the fall and not covered very deep in the ground. In fact, we think seed scattered on the surface, before the winter rains begin, would give best results. We can show a plant for every seed planted, unless it be in one or two spots where they were irrigated. They do not seem to do as well when irrigated as they do on unirrigated land, and cultivation is not necessary, at least we did not cultivate.

rigated. Inky do not seem to do an invirgated land, and cultivation is not necessary, at least we did not cultivate.

"The experiment with us was to see if it would grow on alkall—the kind of land that they say will eat off a crowbar when stuck into it—and such land that is not cultivated, but lies waste. Well, this is the kind of land on which we scratched under the few seeds we had. A look at the land about once in two weeks was all the attention it got; but that seemed to be all it needed, for it grew at a rapid rate—that is, the plants from the seed. The transplanted plants did not do well, and although we watered and kept the ground loose around them, they soon died.

"We have great faith in this salt bush, and truly belive that there has not as yet been any plant brought to the observation of the California farmer that will assist more in neutralizing and reclaiming alkali land than it will. We are convinced that it is adapted to such lands, because our observation shows us that if planted in the fall the plants will be large enough to shade the land directly around it before the hot summer sun draws the alkali to the surface. And any one with a knowledge of such lands, knows that if the land is shaded it is always moist. This fact is what we consider the only thing to grow on the land. This being the case, the salt bush fills all requirements, as one single plant will send out a mat of runners four feet in every direction, and cover the ground four or five inches deep. As a forage plant we can say that we have tried it and find that horses, cattle, hogs and sheepeat it. We have not so much that we could carry it in large quantities, but have only tried it on a small scale."

A chemical analysis has shown the plant to contain something like seventy-five pounds of sait to a ton of the hay. By the above we can see how it will assist us to neutralize these bad lands. First, by keeping it shaded; second, by gradually taking out the sait, and third, as a fertilizer that has been digested by the stock that has

T. F. Thunderation, man! Moving is hard work.

C. S. You don't nab it exactly right; lemme explain. When I come, me an' my wife, we struck rooms, careless like, right under, as it happened, one of them blessed song studios. You know about Sloux Indians?

T. F. Pawnee where I came from, but no matter; go on.

C. S. Indian war-whoop nowhere, fer this was constant. Leavin', we struck a flat, rooms alongside a dressmater. Says I to wife: "Her needle-clicks won't bother." Nor did it; but my! in less'n a week young man of 35, long danglin' yeller hair, came to woo. Poet, voicin' at night the rhyme he'd writ durin the day, an' as the purititions were thin, we heard every word, an' the sighs ensuin' 'tween periods.

T. F. Where next?

C. S. Moved a mile out; jes a shed an' small lot on one side, vacant lot on 'tother. Very next day a feller moved into the shed an' set up as dog-fancler. Goin' over, I said, friendly like: 'Fine lot o' purps, masin' healthy an' strong-lunged; do you rent?" Says he: 'I own this, the house you're in an' the lot on 'tother side."

T. F. As you couldn't stand that, this, the house you're in an' the lot on 'tother side."

T. F. As you couldn't stand that, what next, buy?

C. S. Yes, a little house on Wall street, vacant lot on either side. Quickest country under heaven to do things. Week after, wife an' I, feelin'-chipper, took a spin to Pasadena on 'lectric car.

T. F. Yes, electric cars are quick.

C. S. You don't bite just right, stranger; see me through. Comin' back five hours after, we found housemovers swirgin' in a two-story one one side, a broad cottage on 'tother, an' both occupied.

T. F. Don't say?

C. S. Yes, large fam'ly in cottage, three boys inventin' college yells an' spoutin' Demosthenes; an' in the two-story, sixteen Salvationists, drums, horns, tambourines an'—
T. F. My! My! What could you, what did you do?
C. S. Snickered up my sleeve, whispered, "Two can play the same game," an' Trilby'd my house by trottin' 'er into the street: Moved, an' keep movin'. Suits me as I want rest; but it gives my wife land-seasickness, though she'll weather to it.
T. F. Don't say you are still on wheels and keep moving?
C. S. That's what; we're in all the street parades, see all the sights, new neighbors every hour, street's our front and back yard, sprinkler spoutin' up to doorstep front an' back,
T. F. Yes, but it is costly?
C. S. Not overly; competition among house-movers draws down, an' 'igurin' water rates, taxes, insurance, an' assessments off, we're on the cheap side.
T. F. Your vacant lot?
C. S. Sold it to a man who planted a boller factory on it same week.
T. F. A fine revenge.
C. S. No, I didn't know about the factory. I must dodge up to the postoffice, an' then down home. Let's see, as it's now 10:30, we're about at Eleventh and San Pedro; good by. S. M.

WHAT OUR GIRLS COST. hree Thousand Dollars a V

Train Them.

(Demorest Magazine:) "Where does the very young American girl get her amazing sense of savoir faire?" asked a titled Englishman at Newport the other day. He had sat at dinner beside the youngest daughter of the house, called in by her mother to take a suddenly-vacated seat at a grand dinner party. The pretty miss had volunteered to the amiable British gentleman that she had never sat at a dinner party before, and yet he observed her manners showed all the quiet ease, the lively self-possession, and pretty dignity that would have done credit to a duchess.

"Ah, she attends a fashionable boarding school," exclaimed a Newport belle, who overheard the remark; "and a fashionable school in America gives a very different sort of training from that girls get in French convents and under English governesses. At our schools the girls are not only taught their three R's and some other things but after that they are trained in the path they must walk when they are ready to become debutantes. It costs the parents about $3000 a year for every daughter sent to one of these temples of polite education; for, first of all, they live, while they study, like little prin-cesses. Their school lodgings are dicesses. Their school lodgings are di-vided into most charming suites; they are regularly attended by manicures and hairdressers, and a teacher of phyand hairdressers, and a teacher sical culture drills them twice and hairdressers, and a teacher of physical culture drills them twice weekly in the canons of grace and ease, and there are maids provided to assist at every toilet—maids who speak several languages. They dine in full toilet every night at the fashionable hour; are sent to an opera box twice a week to hear the best music, and are taught only those accomplishments that are the fads of the day. They are allowed to read such novels as will give them a true insight into the society they are to enter, but will not hurt their young minds; the highest-class daily papers are brought fresh to their breakfast tables every morning, and the parents are encouraged to afford their daughters such liberal allowances as will enable the girls to give generously to charity. As schoolgirls, then, they enjoy all the luxury, the sense of power their money and position bring, and are taught to regard shy awkwardness of manner as a greater fault than bad spelling."

GREEK-LETTER FRATERNITIES.

The University of Chicago is in danger of committing a serious mistake if it goes to the extreme of banishing, as is contemplated, all Greek-letter fraternities from the institution. These fraternities are of different qualities. Some are unquestionably pernicious, and should be rigidly excluded; but and should be rigidly excluded; but there are others which are just as unquestionably valuable adjuncts of university culture. Societies whose prime purpose is to subject initiates to humiliating and disgraceful "ceremonies," or to conceive and carry out disreputable intrigues, ought not to be allowed to exist, either inside or outside of colleges. But fraternities like Delta Kappa Epsilon, Alpha Delta Phi, Psi Upsilon, and others of similar character, do important and valuable work in a field which the college curriculum cannot cover. Their purpose is mutual help in social as well as intellectual development. Under the protection of the strong fraternal feeling which prevails in these societies, and the seclusion which secrecy affords, they are able, by friendly criticism and advice, and through the sympathetic interest which each member feels in every other member, to do a valuable service for the student. Furthermore, an esprit du corps pervades them which impresses each member with his share of the responsibility for the honor and reputation of his chapter. The result is a general elevation of the character of the membership. There is no good reason why all these fraternities should be abolished vation of the character of the membership. There is no good reason why all these fraternities should be abolished by an omnibus decree of exclusion. The executive force of a university is deficient if it cannot discriminate between the useful and the detrimental, expel the bad and let the good remain.

(Harper's Bazar:) "Are you bothered with tramps at your country place?" "No. You see, my daughter goes to cooking school, and we give all that she makes to the wandering. They come once, and never come back, and of late they have been avoiding us altogether."

HOW WE LOVE ONE ANOTHER. The Constant Exchange of Cousinly

Compliments.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—(To the Editor of the Times:) As an Englishman who reads a large number of both American and British newspapers and Journais, I am beginning to realize that there is almost as much nonsense written about the States in English papers as by American scribes concerning the old country. Lady Colin Campbell is one of the editors of the Realm a young but widely-read-weekly journal, and her hand is constantly hot with pricks against America, its society, its manners and its girls. In the issue of September 20 a venomous diatribe against the American girl is published, and its spleen inevitably auggests the green-eyed monster. The opening sentence is pregnant of the monstrous misstatements that follow: "To accuse an American newspaper of ill-breeding would be as sensible as to charge a man born without eyes of squinting."

The writer's conclusion as to the American girl, who is indubitably popular with English men, is that "Deep down at the-bottom of her heart there is the knowledge that the daughters of England are her betters." The Churchills, the Beresfords, the Cravens and dozens more do not seem to think so. It is quite obvious that the English women deplore the ventures of their British youth to these shores in search of wives quite zs much as the Americans griev over the departure of the flower of their womanhood, and more—millions of dollars.

The editors of the Realm will not let the Dunraven disaster die, and, although Englishmen in this country have had quite enough of it in every sense, at home they are still laboring to make out a case for this gentleman, who at one fell swoop annihilated the splendid reputation he enjoyed throughout this country as a sportsman. Comment seems quite superfluous on the following extract from the Realm of September 21:

"In America Lord Dunraven was treated with abominable rudeness. He was and is still the subject of the most offensive jokes in the newspapers, and he-has been caricatured and libeled from one end of the United States to another. He knows America, and he hase been carica

WAS IT POISONING?

The Death of a Horse Under Peculia A peculiar death of a horse owned by J. P. Filbert, who lives at the corner of Palm avenue and Adams street, in the Harper tract, occurred Thursday or Friday of last week. The horse had been used for light driving for three or four years, and had been quite a pet of the family.

On Thursday or Friday of last week the horse was taken suddenly ill, and a physician was asked to make an ex-amination. He pronounced it a case of poisoning, and said it would be as well to shoot the animal, for it could not to shoot the animal, for it could not live.

Mr. Filbert objected to shooting it, and the animal grew worse till it died the next day.

A Mexican family living near Mr. Filbert, about a year ago, had a horse which frequently wandered and trampled Mr. Filbert's lawn. He took the horse back a number of times, and each time told the Mexican decidedly that he must keep the animal at home. Still the animal kept coming, and one day, some time ago, Mr. Filbert informed the owner with more emphasis than before that the horse must be kept at home.

The Mexican family moved away the latter part of last week, and the neighbors do not know where they moved to. The name of the family could not be learned from the people living in the neighborhood.

The Times salutes its esteemed con temporary, "Slovinac." May it fill a long-felt want! May it float indefinitely on "the sea of journalism." May its editor have good health. May his family have good health. And may they all live long and prosper.

It should be explained, perhaps, that Slovinac is the name of a new journal recently launched in Los Angeles, which declares itself to be the organ Slavjanske Kolonije u Los Angeles." Nicola Mandic is the "urednik" of the concern, which may mean proprietor, editor or publisher, or all three in one. Unfortunately, our Slavonian lexicon has been borrowed and not returned.

Evidently Slovinac has "come to stay." Its salutatory fairly bristles enterprise and determination, presaging a highly-successful career for the undertaking. Urednik Mandic presents his salutatory in Englishthat is to say, he makes a heroic at tempt to do so. He says:

"In soliciting advertisements for the Slavonian news paper published in Southern California; I desire to call Southern California, I desire to cali attention to many that are not well posted on this matter, to understand that this is, and shall be, the only paper published in the Slavonia language in Southern California, and being that there are many and many of nationality, not only in Los Anin and the surrounding I deem it a necessity for every know, that it shall be of benefit one to know, that it shall be and interest, for them to patronize the same, without fearing of loosing any-

The bicycle has proved a benificent apostle for reform in more ways than one, if the assertion of the United States Tobacco Journal may be accepted, which declares that the bicycle has caused a reduction for the last year of seven hundred millions in the consumption of cigars, the reason assigned being that men seldom smoke while riding a wheel. It has doubtless caused, also, a large falling off in doctors' fees, and left the patient who rode it in far better condition contents of an ordinary drug store.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.—As the novel Trilby has subjugated the country until it is the most talked-of book written in twenty years, so has Paul Potter's play, based upon Du Maurier's story of life in the Latin quarter of Paris, taken the land by storm until the theaters are not large enough to house the audiences that flock to see it.

Los Angeles has caught the contagion, as has, been evidenced, for surely no more representative or brilliant assemblage ever gathered in this city than the one which sat entranced through the unfolding of the charming story at the Spring-street playhouse last night. Every inch of seating space was occupied and even the patient listeners were there afoot, eager to hear the tale told across the footlights, and to see it set out in enchanting pictures that palpitate with the beating of human hearts. LOS ANGELES THEATER.-As the

to see it set out in enchanting pictures that palpitate with the beating of human hearts.

The charm of Du Maurier's tale is in its intense human interest, and though some critics have reviled at its art, and others at its morals, it stands out strong, vivid and tense in the everyday emotions of pathos, mirth, the lovableness of sweet, manly friend-ship and the still more beautiful phase of life, love between the sexes.

We may decialm against the atmosphere in which the tale has its setting, we may cavil because the habituse of the ateliers, male and female alike, smoke cigarettes, dance the can-can, and make copious draughts upon the punch that Taffy was wont to brew, but however earnestly all this is done, and honestly too, we shall not read the story nor see the play of "Trilby" without having our hearts touched more than once until the eyes swim and the sight is blurred, nor fall to be otherwise moved and even exalted by the honesty of its pathos and the purity of its sentiments.

Dear, sweet, gentle-hearted Trilby—though she bears the pleblan name O'Farrel, though she was knocked about Parisian studios as a model for "the altogether," though she was common, of the earth, earthy, no end, not for such a long, long time has our literature been enriched by a more lovable character, and the why is because she is so very human, so saturate with our frailites, so instinct with life behind the veneer of conventionality.

Another great charm of Du Maurier's tale is in the breeziness of its telling. There is a swing and a rythm in it like the fanfaronade of a parading band along a boulevard, or the rollicking movement of a student's chorus. It bristes with off-handedness.

it like the fanfaronade of a parading band along a boulevard, or the rollick-ing movement of a student's chorus. It bristles with off-handedness, spar-kles with deft phrases, and rippies with life where youth is gay and love is young and care—a fig for care! "Johnny fill up the bowl."

Mr. Potter's play is quite as great an achievement in its way as was the novel itself. Although from Dan' to Beersheba the quidnuncs prophesied failure for it last night showed us that it is really a strong, clever, brilliant it is really a strong, clever, brilliant play. To be sure the playwright has taken many liberties with the original story, but it was not an easy task he set himself and that he has done so well shows no small bit of constructive talent.

set himself and that he has done so well shows no small bit of constructive talent.

To the writer's mind Mr. Potter has made too little of Trilby herself, and has unduly subjugated her as a character to the domination of Svengall. As has already been said in this hasty resume, Trilby is one of the most charming and delightful characters in our fin-de-siece literature, but the play does not so particularize her. She is set out on the canvas with meager strokes of the brush, the qualities which won us originally are not emphasized, and, in fact, as Mr. Potter paints her, one wonders what everybody is making such a fuss over her about, and why everybody, from the Laird to Gecko, the Hungarian fiddler, is so in love with her. We knew all about it when we read Du Maurier's story, but Mr. Potter leaves very much to the imagination, indeed, rather too much.

to the imagination, indeed, rainer to much.

Wilton Lackaye does some great work—impressive, striking, original work—in the character of Svengall, but really, when one recalls the Svengall of the tale, much of it seems overwrought, bombastic, meretricious. He may be Mr. Potter's Svengall, but one would be safe in laying odds that Mr. Du Maurier would not recognize him if he met him on the street. It is a bit of work that appeals to the clam-Mr. Du Maurier would not recognize him if he met him on the street. It is a bit of work that appeals to the clamorous throng, and as a specimen of Mr. Hydeism is quite notable; but it is uncanny, unnatural and uncarthly, and the death scene, while one is not apt to forget it, is cartainly bad art. Miss Crane's Tribby has not much to commend it. It is rather colorless and vapid. Having read so much of Virginia Hearned, we cannot but feel that Mr. Palmer has hardly played fair with us in keeping her in New York. Ignacio Martinetti is a capital Zou Zou. He has caught the spirit of the role with a strong grasp, and plays it with a finish that makes it one of the striking features of the performance. His work in the studio scene, as well as in the last act, is consummately done. The Laird is ably handled by Charles Canfield. Charles H. Riegel makes an exceedingly acceptable Taffy, and Brenton Thorpe's Little Billee is even more of a muff than the one in the story. Mr. Morrison's Gecko is full of strong features, and Dodor, as presented by Mr. Simmons, was thoroughly engaging. Jennie Reiffarth, elever as she is, never did anything better than her Mme, Vinard. Frederick A. Thomson was excellent as Rev. Thomas Bagot, and the young ladies appeared to fine advantage in the scene in the studio. The stage settings were thoroughly good, and the play is, all in all, one of the greatest successes of recent years. It may be seen tonight and gain tomorrow afternoon and evening, which closes the all-too-brief engagement.

BURBANK. That curiosity enters largely into the composition of most people was clearly shown last evening when the Burbank was crowded to the doors with an audience, the greater part of which had been called thiter by the announcement that the pretty play of "Sweet Lavender" was to be supplemented on this occasion by an extraordinary attraction. Oliver Goldsmith was not the only man in history who "dearly loved a lord," and the general run of playgoers in this democratic country have a weakness for a lord's wife, who would be, by brevet, lady. After all the advertising that has been bestowed gratis upon the little song and dance artiste of Bakersfield, it required but brief announcement to draw a crowd to see Lady Sholto Douglass, wife of Lord Sholto Douglass, who is a son of the Marquis of Queensbury, and is relative in one way or another with a multitude of English nobs. The story of the young lord's courtship and subsequent viclesitudes of fortune incident to the family disapproval of the match, is familiar to all, newspaper readers, and doubtless known thoroughly to everyone of the large audience that went to see her at the Burbank.

The Lady Sholto Douglass, engaged by the Frawley company at the fabulous expense of $300 or lessa week, was not given a place in the cast of "Sweet Lavender," but she appeared between the second and third acts and sang a song. Very sprightly and "cunning" she looked as she tripped upon the stage, clad in an Alsatian costume, with black waist and pink skirts reaching to her knees, her head surmounted by a peaked head-dress that served to improve her round face. Very like a French doll she looked, and she danced gracefully, her prettily rounded calves and dainty feet carrying her through pretty gyrations, in which the well-filled black stockings and the pink and white skirts flitted about the pink and white skirts flitted about pleasingly. Lady Sholto Douglass also.

which the well-filled black stockings and the pink and white skirts flitted about pleasingly. Lady Sholto Douglass also sang, but with the voice of a school girl, and a very young school girl at that, her ditty reminding one forcibly of the vocal exercise in a primary grade of the public school. Lady Sholto Douglass has a pretty shape and deserves credit for her declared intention to go back to the stage in order to attain financial independence of her titled husband's cold and distant family, but she needs to take a course of voice culture. She was encored upon completing her little song and dance, the ushers in the back row furnishing most of the enthusiasm, and she responded by tripping the airy steps again, without words.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(To the Editor of The Times.) I quote from a press report in Tuesday's edition of your valued paper:

"A POP-EYED DENIZEM.
"Capture of a. Fish Unlike Anything "Ever Seen Before.
"SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The Fish Commission's steamer Albatross has returned from the north with a popeyed denizen of the deep that is certain to be the wonder of the naturalists the world over. It is a fish, but utterly unlike anything ever caught before, and in no way resembling ordinary fishes. It was scooped up in a dredge that was at the time traveling along the bottom of the ocean a mile and a half deep."

Though knowing I am getting into deep water in so doing, kindly allow me as an interested visitor in Southern California to say that in your own waters at Samta Catalina Island may be found a "pop-eyed denisen" that must be a southern connection of the fish which is to be the "wonder of the naturalists the world over." We saw him on the beach—him and others like him—to the amount of 400 pounds, and, looking from the near distance of the hotel plazza like a coral bank. The fishermen told us the catch was made with a many-hooked line in 600 feet of water; that the fish never came to the surface except by the hook, and when he appeared, out popped his eyes in the fashion was sweithem. This particular surface except by the hook, and when he appeared, out popped his eyes in the fashion we saw them. This particular catch was not to go to the Smithsonian Institution, but to the Whittler school, where it was expected the boys would at once know where to place it EASTERN VISITOR.

Your true Socialist, who advocates perfect "equality," in the scheme 'o things, will find it exemplified at a box-ing match, called by courtesy an exhi-bition. The meeting called last night to de dare against a reduction of railroad atea did not declare that way. The neeting just took matters into its own hands, and said the cut was all right, and ought to have more on top of it. The hall had been packed by labor agitators, who acted as they did, not because they loved the railroad commissioners more, but because they loved the Southern Pacific Company less. Such a "public demonstration would have little weight either way.

The thoughtful way in which the interests of the crap-players and roulette dealers, and the pool and whisky-sell-ers, are looked after by the manage-ment of the district fair, now in progress at Agricultural Park, is touching. Of-ficers must use their judgment as to whether cyclists are riding more than eight miles an hour between cross streets, or more than four miles an hour at crossings. sentence and were fined $20 each, which they paid. The cases of all the rest went over till 10 o'clock today for sentence.

All but five of the prisoners had up bail. It was two of the latter that escaped. Escape was made possible by the fact that the prisoners' dock was so crowded that several of the gamblers had to be accommodated with seats inside the inclosed space to the right of Justice Owens's bench. A door leads from this space through a small room into Justice Morrison's courtroom. While the court officials were busy, two of the prisoners improved the opportunity to silp through the side door and make a hasty exit via Justice Morrison's court, which was not in session at the time, but the Justice himself was ut his desk. The escaping prisoners passed right under his nose, but the unsuspecting jurist did not try to apprehend them. He thought they were some attorneys or witnesses that had been let out through the side door. The police have a good description of the men who escaped, and expect to pick them up. If caught they were some attorneys or witnesses that had been let out through the side door. The police have a good description of the men who escaped, and expect to pick them up. If caught they will probably not get off as easy as the rest of the crowd.

The fine of $20 imposed on the three men who have been sentenced, has dismayed the other culprits. It is presumed that the rest of the visitors will be fined the same amount, and it is not every one of the unlucky sports who can lay his hand on so much cash. It is likely, therefore, that some of them will do penance in the chain gang. It is thought that Morales, the faro dealer; C. Long, alias "Preacher Frank," the boss of the lay-out, and McElwain, the player, and possibly of the court in dealing with the prisoners, has greatly discouraged the gambling fraternity, and it is not likely that any of them will attempt to do business again in Los Angeles, in the near future.

sion, and reterates his assertion that the detection and punishment of crimes created by the interstate commerce statute is only an incident to the scheme and aim of "regulation," the feature with which the commission has no power to deal. He adds that the courts seem to have reached a conclusion different from the view taken by Senator Chandler, that the alleged agreement the trunk lines are about to enter into is fliegal, and comes under either the anti-pooling or antitrust laws. He concludes as follows:

"It is evident that no combination of carriers, whether formed in evasion of existing laws, or organized under legalised pooling, can be more powerful or aligned process of absorption, in one way or another, has gone on until there is now practically no competition in the railroad service of that section. So far as I am aware, this consolidation has not resulted in an increase of charges, but, on the contrary, has been attended by considerable reductions in rates, by improved facilities and the better accommodation of the public. Fewer complaints come to us from that region than from any other part of the country. I believe the people in that territory would not welcome a return to competitive conditions.

"I am yet to be convinced that similar results might not fairly be expected if co-operative action should be substituted for compulsory warfare on a broader scale in a more extensive field. In short, I believe the principle of association should be applied to regulate commerce' should be exerted to secure firm and unquestioned control of the rates and charges which carriers may exact."

Parnell, and the house which was the bifthplace of the mother of Charles Stewart Parnell, and which has been her residence for many years, is practically dismantied. There was much sympathy expressed at the public sale of the woman whose cherished belongings the crowd was bidding for. Ironsides is one of the most famous places in this section of New Jersey, and the history attached to many of the articles to be disposed of, added to the fame of the Stewart and Parnell families, has been the cause of drawing to the scene many persons from adjoining places.

Some articles which Mrs. Parnell second places which Mrs. Parnell places, but were sent to New York, which will be her home in the future. Henry Warren was the auctioneer, and as he lifted article after article to the apon, but were sent to New York, which will be her home in the future. Henry Warren was the auctioneer, and as he lifted article after article to the public view, he would give a little sketch of it. Some of the relics, however, went at ridiculously low prices. The principal part of the effects consisted of old paintings, pictures, lithographs, vases and urns. A number of books printed in the early part of the century brought good prices. Three tables, which were brought here by Commodore Stewart, Mrs. Parnell's father, from Italy in 1812, caused spirited buying, and were knocked down for a good sum, while a sideboard, which the old commodore owned for years, brought only $3.

Among the last of the articles sold was an old plano, upon which Mrs, Parnell had learned to play three score years ago. It was sold for a mere song, while the aged owner stood by and shed bitter tears at the loss of so many of her cherished possessions. The total receipts of the sale will scarcely reach $600.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—A special from New Orleans says that a great deal of chagrin was caused in militia circles there when an ambitious policeman appeared in the Police Court and swore out affidavits against the leading officers of the State militia for discharging firearms within the city limits last Sunday. The occasion of this breach of the law was a sham battle fought at the lower city park, in which almost the entire militia of the State engaged. It was given to raise funds for the monument now being erected to Gen. Beauregard, the leading Confederate general from this State. The battle was a big success, but by an oversight the Mayor's permission was not obtained, and the policeman therefore concluded that the law had been yiolated. The policemen were backed up by Judge Aucoin of the Recorder's court, and yesterday affidavits were made against seventeen officials. Col. L. C. Quintero of the Governor's staff was one of the officers against whom the affidavits were sworn. Among others included in the list are Gen. Glynn, the ranking officer in the State; Gen. Euclid Borland, commanding the First Brigade; six captains, two leutenants, three colonels, nanding the First Brigade; six cap-ains, two lieutenants, three colonels cidentally wounded.

The troops are highly indignant, and the entire city is enjoying the situation. The militia claim that the affidavit is weak, as the officers directed, but did not themselves discharge the

Catholics and Protestants Will Sur port Their Own Schools. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

WINNIPEG (Manitoba,) Oct. 24.—It s stated here that Archbishop Lange-vin, the head of the Roman Catholic Church in this country, has submitted a proposition to Premier Greenway and the Manitoba government for a com the Manttoba government for a compromise in the parochial school warfare, and that the compromise will be accepted. The terms of the compromise are understood to be that Catholic separate schools may be established, but will receive no financial aid from the government. The Catholics, however, are not to be taxed for the support of the Protestant public schools. The Catholic school board will impose taxes on all Catholics for parochial schools, except in instances where a Catholic parent prefers to send children to the public schools. In brief, the proposition, is that Catholics are not to be taxed for public schools, but will be compelled to pay the total cost of the maintenance of parochial schools. Such a compromise, it is said, will satisfy both Catholics and Protestants, and end the struggle.

The Times salutes its esteemed con temporary, "Slovinac." May it fill a long-felt want! May it float indefinitely on "the sea of journalism." May its editor have good health. May his family have good health. And may they all live long and prosper.

It should be explained, perhaps, that Slovinac is the name of a new journal recently launched in Los Angeles, which declares itself to be the 'organ Slavjanske Kolonije u Los An-Nicola Mandic is the "urednik" of the concern, which may mean proprietor, editor or publisher, or all three in one. Unfortunately, our Sla-vonian lexicon has been borrowed and not returned.

quite evident that the business end of Slovinac is to be well looked after, from the fact that the solicit- that remained in store for the people ing of advertisements is placed at the head of the article as the thing of most importance. The assurance that of "loosing anything by it" is also re-When Urednik Mandic assures his readers that Slovinac "is and shall be the only paper published in the Slavonia language in Southern California" he evidently means business. Whether he proposes to go after prospective competitors with a un, or to exterminate them in some other equally-effective manner, is not stated. The policy of the paper is set forth in the following clear-cut, incisive language, which to some extent explains itself:

After months of suffering, Lieut.-Gov. Spencer G. Millard is dead. The end came just before midnight last evening. It came peacefully and, mercifully, without physical pain. Mr. Watterson is certainly entitled to take a rest, and to be spared the humiliation and pain of "leading forlorn hopes and filling impossible breaches" in the next Presidential campaign. AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.—As the novel Trilby has subjugated the country until it is the most talked-of book written in twenty years, so has Paul Potter's play, based upon Du Maurier's story of life in the Latin quarter of Paris, taken the land by storm until the theaters are not large enough to house the audiences that flock to see it.

Los Angeles has caught the contagion, as has been evidenced, for surely no more representative or brilliant assemblage ever gathered in this city than the one which sat entranced through the unfolding of the charming story at the Spring-street playhouse last night. Every inch of seating space was occupied and even the patient listeners were there afoot, eager to hear the tale told across the footlights, and to see it set out in enchanting pictures that palpitate with the beating of human hearts.

The charm of Du Maurier's tale is in its intense human interest. LOS ANGELES THEATER.-As the the tale told across the footlights, and to see it set out in enchanting plotures that palpitate with the beating of human hearts.

The charm of Du Maurier's tale is in its intense human interest, and though some critics have reviled at its art, and others at its morals, it stands out strong, vivid and tense in the everyday emotions of pathos, mirth, the lovableness of sweet, manly friendship and the still more beautiful phase of life, love between the sexes.

We may declaim against the atmosphere in which the tale has its setting, we may cavil because the habitues of the ateliers, male and female alike, smoke elgarettes, dance the can-can, and make copious draughts upon the punch that Taffy was wont to brew, but however earnestly all this is done, and honestly too, we shall not read the story nor see the play of "Trilby" without having our hearts touched more than once until the eyes swim and the sight is blurred, nor fail to be otherwise moved and even exalted by the honestly of its pathos and the purity of its sentiments.

Dear, sweet, gentle-hearted Trilby—though she bears the plebian name O'Farrel, though she was knocked about Parisian studios as a model for "the altogether," though she was common, of the earth, earthy, no end, not for such a long, long time has our literature been enriched by a more lovable character, and the why is because she is so very human, so saturate with our frailites, so instinct with life behind the veneer of conventionality.

Another great charm of Du Maurier's tale is in the breeziness of its telling. There is a swing and a rythm in it like the fanfaronade of a parading band along a boulevard, or the rollicking movement of a student's chorus. It bristles with off-handedness, sparkles with deft phrases, and ripples with life where youth is gay and love is young and care—a fig for care! "Johnny fill up the bow!"

Mr. Potter's play is quite as great an achlevement in its way as was the novel itself. Although from Dan to Beersheba the quidnuncs prophesied failure for it hast night to be the "wonder of the naturalists the world over." We saw him on the beach—him and others like him—to the amount of 400 pounds, and, looking from the near distance of the hotel plazza like a coral bank. The fisherman told us the catch was made with a many-hooked line in 600 feet of water; that the fish never came to the surface except by the hook, and when he appeared, out popped his eyes in the fashion we saw them. This particular catch was not to go to the Smithsonian Institution, but to the Whittier school, where it was expected the boys would at once know where to place it.

well shows no small bit of constructive talent.

To the writer's mind Mr. Potter has made too little of Trilby herself, and has unduly subjugated her as a character to the domination of Svengall. As has already been said in this hasty resume, Trilby is one of the most charming and delightful characters in our fin-de-siece literature, but the play does not so particularize her. She is set out on the canvas with meazer strokes of the brush, the qualities which won us originally are not emphasized, and, in fact, as Mr. Potter paints her, one wonders what everybody is making such a fus over her about, and why everybody, from the

It is Mr. Du Maurier would not recognize him if he met him on the street. It is a bit of work that appeals to the clamorous throng, and as a specimen of Mr. Hydelsm is quite notable, but it is uncanny, unnatural and unearthly, and the death scene, while one is not apt to forget it, is certainly bad art. Miss Crane's Trilby has not much to commend it. It is rather colorless and vapid. Having read so much of Virginia Hearned, we cannot but feel that Mr. Palmer has hardly played fair with us in keeping her in New York. Ignacio Martinetti is a capital Zou Zou. He has caught the spirit of the role with a strong grasp, and plays it with a finish that makes it one of the striking features of the performance. His work in the studio scene, as well as in the last act, is consummately done. The Laird is ably handled by Charles Canfield. Charles H. Riegel makes an exceedingly acceptable Taffy, and Brenton Thorpe's Little Billee is even more of a muff than the one in the story. Mr. Morrison's Gecko is full of strong features, and Dodor, as presented by Mr. Simmons, was thoroughly engaging. Jennie Relifarth, clever as she is, never did anything better than her Mme. Vinard. Frederick A. Thomson was excellent as Rev. Thomas Basot, and the young ladies appeared to fine advantage in the scene in the studio. The stage settings were thoroughly good, and the play is, all in all, one of the greatest successes of recent years. It may be seen tonight and again tomorrow afternoon and evening, which closes the all-too-brief engagement.

The meeting called last night to declare against a reduction of railroad rates did not declare that way. The meeting just took matters into its own hands, and said the cut was all right; and ought to have more on top of it. The hall had been packed by labor agitators, who acted as they did, not cause they loved the rathroad com because they loved the rannoad com-missioners more, but because they loved the Southern Pacific Company less. Such a "public demonstration" would have little weight either way.

courts seem to have reached a conclusion different from the view taken by Senator Chandler, that the alleged agreement the trunk lines are about to enter into is filegal, and comes under either the anti-pooling or anti-trust laws. He concludes as follows:

"It is evident that no combination of carriers, whether formed in evasion of existing laws, or organized under legalized pooling, can be more powerful or alarming than their actual consolidation. In the New England States the process of absorption, in one way or another, has gone on until there is now practically no competition in the railroad service of that section. So far as I am aware, this consolidation has not resulted in an increase of charges, but, on the contrary, has been attended by considerable reductions in rates, by improved facilities and the better accommodation of the public. Fewer complaints come to us from that region than from any other part of the country. I believe the people in that territory would not welcome a return to competitive conditions.

"I am yet to be convinced that similar results might not fairly be expected if co-operative action should be substituted for compulsory warfare on a broader scale in a more extensive field. In short, I believe the principle of association should be applied to public transportation; that the power to "regulate commerce' should be exerted to secure firm and unquestioned control of the rates and charges which carriers may exact."

out affidavits against the leading officers of the State militia for discharging firearms within the city limits last Sunday. The occasion of this breach of the law was a sham battle fought at the lower city park, in which almost the entire militia of the State engaged. It was given to raise funds for the monument now being erected to Gen. Beauregard, the leading Confederate general from this State.

The battle was a big success, but by an oversight the Mayor's permission was not obtained, and the policeman therefore concluded that the law had been violated. The policemen were backed up by Judge Ausoln of the Recorder's court, and yesterday affidavits were made against seventeen officials. Col. L. C. The Catholics, however, are not to be taxed for the support of the Protestant public schools. The Catholic school board will impose taxes on all Catholics for parochial schools, except in instances where a Catholic parent prefers to send children to the public schools. In brief, the proposition, is that Catholics are not to be taxed for public schools, but will be compefled to pay the total cost of the maintenance of parochial schools. Such a compromise, it is said, will satisfy both Catholics and Protestants, and end the struggle.

BOMBAST.

We have frequently had occasion to deplore the use of bombastic ideas and language in advertisements. It is to be sincerely regretted that advertising writers indulge in the use of expressions that are either innocent exaggerations, formulated for effect, or else deliberate mistatements, for the purpose of bilinding and deceiving the credulous. Themost deplorable use of bombastic language is to be found in our daily press. Each noticeable feat performed is a magnificent triumph of journalism. It is probably from close association with the news-writer that the advertising man has become afflicted with the bombastic habit. Drop it! If you have faith in the article you offer, if you can honestly indorse the price you ask for it, why indulge in hyperbole? It displeases, if not disgusts, the intelligent; it creates a false impression upon the ignorant. The former laughs or sneers at your offer; the latter, building a fictitious hope upon your words, is angered when the article fails to satisfy his ingenuous expectations.—The Haberdasher.

Whatever is happening this week at Agricultural Park is far less interesting than what's happening now at Desmond's, in the Bryson Block. The biggest thing on the card up to date is Desmond's big sale of Winter Hats and Underwear. Everybody should take a hand in the fun. It's the jolliest sale for buyers ever known in this town. A ride in a bike is not to be compared with it. Join the crowd of smilers before the prizes are all taken and while Desmond's selling A 1 soft and stiff hats for $2 and $2.50.

INFERIOR BOXING.

Farcical Exhibition by the Angel City Athletic Club.

The management of the Angel City Athletic Club was responsible last evening for one of the poorest, most uninteresting and least satisfactory boxing exhibitions ever given in this city.

boxing exhibitions ever given in this city.

The announcement that drew a first-class crowd, in point of numbers, was that Fraser and Bogan were to meet in a six-round bout. A half-dozen other events were billed to take place, but these were conceded to be only "fillers-in."

Fraser and Bogan appeared, but not at the same time. Fraser ambled gaily about the ring and allowed Pab Asevado to punch him, just for fun, and Bogan stood up against Fogarty, the San Pedro slugger, for four rounds, but that was the last seen of the feather-weights.

Pedro slugger, for four rounds, but that was the last seen of the feather-weights.

Choynski and Gallagher boxed four rather tame rounds, before the "event of the evening," as the placard stated it, took place. This was a fifteen-round go between Whitesides and McLain, two colored pugs. They were both lazy and spiritless, and the crowd hooted in disgust at their lack of ginger. In the tenth round the men warmed up, and the crowd cheered a little bit, whereupon Referee Wotkins "rose up" and with the dignity of a Senator, said the fight would bestoped. But it wasn't. A white-haired patrician, who was sandwiched between two deputy district attorneys, at the press bench, swore that as "he had been invited to witness a physical culture and development exhibition, he didn't propose to be bunced out of his entertainment by any cross-grained referee. The applause that followed the old man's speech must have touched Wotkins's heart, for he called "time," and the boxers ambied about the ring for another five rounds, when the match was called a draw, neither of the boxers having displayed energy enough to have whipped a wooden man. About $200 was coined from this hippodroming exhibition by the club's board of directors.

BICYCLE ORDINANCE.

Acting on instructions of the Police Commission, Chief Glass's officers are enforcing the bicycle ordinance to the White, black and yellow

"scorchers" are arrested, irrespective of race, color or previous condition. Officer Blackburn made quite a record yesterday afternoon in making arrests of alleged violators of the ordinance. He was stationed at Sixth street and of alleged violators of the ordinance. He was stationed at Sixth street and Broadway, and as the procession of cyclists down Broadway, homeward-bound for supper, began, he commenced halting all that appeared to be riding faster than the ordinance permits, and sent them to the station. About 4 o'clock he arrested Harry Wong, the first Chinaman in Los Angeles, and believed to be the first in the world, to have taken to the wheel. Wong has become quite an expert wheelman, and is rated a scorcher of the first degree. Frank Bell, who was acting as a sort of pacemaker for Wong, was sent to the station at the same time. Both were released on furnishing bail.

About 6 o'clock Officer Blackburn sent in four more prisoners, three of them white and one black. These were followed by one more a little later. The quintette were booked as A. W. Benson, C. M. Richardson, W. J. Keith, F. R. Pitner and L. K. Daniel. The prisoners were all released on bail, after some delay in sending out for friends to go their security.

Another unlucky wheelman, M. A. Byrne, was arrested for scorching on Pico street, by Officer Long, last night.

Give the Cyclists a Chance.

Give the Cyclists a Change.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11. 1895.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Kindly allow me the privilege of a short space in your paper in which to make a few comments, from a wheelman's point of view, upon the present methods of street sprinkling as pursued in this city. Not long since we read an article commending the city's action in having a narrow strip in the middle of principal streets left unwatered for the benefit of cyclists. True, a spasmodic attempt seems to have been made to bring this change, but with poor results, for it appears not to have been followed up. This is certainly to be regretted by riders of the wheel, the more so that they have had a foretaste of a system of street sprinkling that, in justice to their rights, should be adopted and fully carried out. Oh, the delicious sensation of trying to keep your seat when the rear wheel, sliding this way and that in the slippery mud, makes desperate efforts to unseat you. Too frequently this state of things exists by reason of the cussedness of the drivers of sprinklers, some of whom seem to take a fiendish delight in the woes of us poor fellows of the wheel, and seek to increase them at every opportunity.

It would seem it ought to be an easy matter to leave a dry strip in the middle of the road. Could not the driver play but one of the outlets, up one side of the street and down the other? Many of our thoroughfares are quite narrow, and, as a consequence, the center gets more than the sides, because the water spreads over a strip more than half the width of the street. Of course in the case of the old style upright watering carts, with a sieve at the rear through which the water pours, much could not be expected. Give them routes over lightly traveled streets.

In order that the middle bleycle strip may not become too dusty it could be watered say once a day, or once in two days. The little dust raised by the blike could not annoy any one but a confirmed grumbler, and a cyclist would rather dust his wheel than scrape it. Besides mu

A FUNNY MEETING.

The Programme Against Railroads Freight Reduction Was Upset.

The meeting called at Turnverein Hall last night to protest against the cut in freight rates by the Railroad Commission, adopted some resolutions, but they were not of the sort intended by the people who called the meeting. Instead of roaring in a loud voice, according to programme, for a maintenance of rates, the citizens and others nance of rates, the citizens and others who were there declared the Railroad Commissioners had done a good thing, and the only trouble was they should have made the cut bigger.

There were about five hundred men present, and there was a sprinkling of women, among whom could be seen Mrs. Alex, who won some distinction as a leader in the now defunct Industrial Army.

Music was dispensed by the Catalina

Music was dispensed by the Catalina

was asked a little dealy, was asked to have a secretary.

George W. Fix of Sacramento was announced as the speaker of the evening, and he began by telling about how he worked with a pick and shovel, and did other things. He styled the land-owners as barons, and endeavored to argue that a reduction in freight rates would effect a reduction in the wages paid railroad employees, and that wages in other lines of labor would be also reduced because of the reduction in railroad wages. He denied that he was a tool of the Southern Pacific Company. Frequent interruptions from various parts of the house made it apparent that those who were listening did not all agree with the speaker. After a time a sergeant-at-arms was appointed, but this did not appear to mend matters much.

The speaker closed his remarks in comparatively short order, and offered a lengthy resolution in line with what he had said. As soon as it was offered. Theodore Pinther moved to lay it on the Theodore Pinther moved to lay it on the table, which motion was carried beyond a doubt.

Scarcely was this action taken before somebody in the front of the hall moved to indorse the action of the Railroad Commissioners in making a 25 per cent. cut. Somebody else moved to amend by favoring a 35 per cent. reduction, and the motion as thus amended was adopted with a whoop.

A lengthy set of resolutions indorsing the Railroad Commission was afterward adopted, and before the meeting broke up speeches were made by L. Biddle and S. E. Fulton. It was evident that the hall had been "packed" by those who have feelings of unkindiness toward the Southern Pacific Company.

gray stallion to pass him. In the stretch Rex Gifford was a length ahead of Coal Dust and trotting easily. Tryon holding him back. There seemed to be enough reserve speed in the gray to have won a dozen heats, as he came under the wire, a winner in 2:25. Coal Dust broke at the drawgate, allowing Belle Wilson to take second place.

Third heat—A start was had at the first attempt in this heat. Rex Gifford took the pole, and kept the lead around the course, Coal Dust close at his wheel and Belle Wilson several lengths behind. There was not a break made by any of the horses around the course. Coal Dust stuck like a burr to the leader until well into the stretch, when Rex Gifford pulled away from the black gelding, coming in an easy winner. Time, 2:21%. Coal Dust went into the air at the drawgate, glying Belle Wilson second place.

Fourth heat—Rex Gifford took the pole at the start and led around the course, Coal Dust second and Belle Wilson a sixteenth in the rear. At the three-quarter post Gifford and Coal Dust were trotting even, but the gray horse gradually pulled away from his rival, keeping the lead down the stretch, winning the heat and with it the race and first money. Time, 2:22½. Coal Dust second, Belle Wilson third. FREE SELLING RACE, THREE-FOURTHS OF A MILE.

FREE SELLING RACE, THREE-FOURTHS OF A MILE.

This race was the first of the two running races on the card, and proved to be a pretty race, with an exciting finish for a climax. There were eight starters, with Owens Bros.'s b. g. Polaski the favorite, selling at 2 to 1. A lot of money was placed on C. L. McDonald's br. s. Hueneme, who won the five-eighths of a mile selling race the day before. The start was made with Jim Bozeman at the pole. He kept in the lead until almost at the three-quarter post, with Linville a close second. Down the stretch Bozeman dropped back into fourth place, Polaski steadily pulling away from the field, winning the race by a neck from Hueneme; time 1:15. Hueneme second, Johnny Capron third.

In the third race, the Agricultural Park stake, one and one-eighth miles, purse of $250 added to the entrance money, there were five entries: Owens Bros.' Two Cheers, Dickey & Co.'s b. h.

Again the horses scored, with Dan N. on the outside, a length in the lead of the field, but Capt. Newton yelled "go" and go they did at a hot pace. The quarter was passed in 0.33½, Dan N. in the lead and Babe Marion second, and hugging the pole. The half was made in 1:07½, Dan N. still leading, but with Babe Marion steadily closing in on him. At the three-quarter post, Marion was pacing even with the erratic Dan, but down the stretch a long brown streak evolved itself from the field, and at the drawgate the crowd was yelling "Algregor! Algregor!" and Algregor it was, three lengths in the lead, which the second horse, Dan N., never lessened. Algregor won. Time 2:15½, Dan N. second, Babe Marion third.

NORTHWEST IMPROVEMENT.

Electric Travel to be Inaugurated Tomerrow.

The programme for the opening of the Bellevue-avenue electric road has been definitely decided upon by the Committee on Arrangements. A gang of men who worked all last night had the switch in at Bellevue avenue and Buena Vista street by daylight this morning. Everything is ready for a trial trip over the line before the formal opening tomorrow.

Cars will begin running on scheduled time from Fourth and Spring streets at 19 a.m., Saturday. The city officials, invited guests and the Northwest Improvement Association will occupy the first car, which will be closely followed by a car for regular passengers. The two cars will be photographed at the corner of Montreal street and Bellevue avenue. During the stop-over a speech will be given from the car platform.

The evening programme will be as already outlined in The Times, consisting of fireworks, band music and addresses by ex-Mayor Hazard and others.

Knight second and Columbus third. Chico kept the lead, passing the three-quarter post in 1:44, and winning the heat by three lengths. Time 2:18½. Charivari second, Knight third. Second heat—Chico took the pole in this heat and led at the quarter in 0:35. He was passed by Knight near the half, who kept the lead for at least a furlong, Chico drew up on the brown horse and took the lead in the stretch, passing the three-quarter post in 1:35, and winning the heat by five lengths. Time 2:13½, Prince Ira second, Knight third. Third heat—Chico continued the favorite in the race, although a lot of money was placed on Knight, the brown shallion, driven by Tryon, the latter's work in driving Rex Gifford having inspired confidence in his ability to handle the ribbons. The field got off to a good start in this heat, Chico again taking the pole, leading at the quarter in 0:35. He was never headed throughout the heat, his only rival being Knight, who stuck to Chico closely around the turn, but dropped back at the three-quarter post, which was passed in 1:45½, the heat having been made in 1:10. Chico won the heat by four lengths, coming down the stretch in a jog, while Tryon was whipping Knight without mercy, Time 2:20, Knight second, El Molino third. PACING, 2:25 CLASS.

THE COMPLICATION EXPLAINED. How it Happened a Finished Sewer

Ex-City Engineer Dockweiler made an explanation to a Times reporter yesterday relative to the fact that the district in the southwestern part of the city, although completed, cannot be used, because the sewers in what is known as the Powell district are not finished. This situation, as has been explained in The Times, promises some unpleasant complications because the explained in The Times, promises some unpleasant complications because the drainage from the Darcy district will have to discharge through the Powell district, which, under the contract for the latter, need not be completed till February 20 next.

Mr. Dockweller said it was the expectation to prosecute the proceedings for the two districts, so as to have both contracts let at the same time. It was found, however, in laying out the Powell district that the sewer on two or three north and south streets would have to connect with the sewer on Eleventh street. There were slight gaps between the ends of those streets and Eleventh street, and in order to avoid contention on this point as to the validity of the contract for the work it was thought best to have proceedings commenced for the condemnation of rights-of-way for sewers across those gaps.

It was on this account that the laying out of the Powell district was delayed. The parties owning the gaps of land in question afterward gave the right-of-way to the city, and so it was rendered unnecessary to condemn the land. This was too late, however, to prevent delay, and the Powell contract was not let till some time after the letting of the Darcy contract.

Report on Opening Alley.

The report of the commissioners for the opening of an alley from Fourth street to Fifth street, between Spring and Broadway was fled with the City Clerk yesterday. The commissioners are W. B. Scarborough, H. S. West and W. G. Finch. The amount of damages allowed for land taken is $25.785.50. The expenses are: Commissioners' salaries, $300; clerk's salary and maps, $100; engineer's fees, $58.75; stationery, $3; certificate of title, $150; advertising, $25; amount estimated for recording papers and other expenses, $46.25, making the total expenses $583. The assessment district is limited to the block in which the alley is to be opened. Property-owners have until November 25 in which to protest against the confirmation of the report of the commissioners.

Among the building permits issued yesterday were the following:

F. M. Parker, dwelling house, Thirty-first street, near Main, $1500.

W. W. Webb, dwelling house, Byram street, near Tenth, $1000.

A. K. Crawford, dwelling house, Flower street, near Third, $700.

mpaneling the Jury to Try Ferd B. Kennett.

Among all the murders that have agitated Southern California during the past year the shooting of Private Detective A. B. Lawson by Capt. Ferdi-the past year the shooting of Private Detective A. B. Lawson by Capt. Ferdinand B. Kennett has excited the deepest and most wide-spread interest, both on account of the well-known detective being the victim of a fearful revenge, and because his slayer was almost as widely known, and was considered a man of unblemished character and instincts the reverse of those usually attributed to a murderer.

The trial which has been awaited with such vivid interest by the many friends of both men, the defendant and his victim, commenced yesterday in Department One of the Superior Court. The entire day was consumed in the impaneling of the jury, but even this tedious process did not lack interest to those who watched the selection of the twelve men, who are to decide the event of what promises to be one of the closest legal battles ever fought in this court.

Promptly at 19 a.m. Capt. Kennett followed the Sheriff into the court-fought in this court.

Promptly at 19 a.m. Capt. Kennett followed the Sheriff into the court-room and took his seat near his attorneys, T. E. Gibbon, Esq., W. H. Shinn, Esq., Ben Goodrich, Esq., and W. A. Harris, Esq. The defendant's fair skin has grown paler than ever during his long confinement in jail, but he looks well, and his pleasant, composed manner indicated neither dread nor remorse as he chatted in undertones with the friends who occupied the seats around him. Near Kennett sat Detective George Insley, who has been indefatigable in his work upon the case, and is regarded as one of the pillars of the defense.

A little farther down the table was stationed the prosecutor, C. C. McComas, and beside him, like a tower of strength in time of trouble, was seen the massive person and uncompromising countenance of Chief Deputy District Attorney George M. Holton, who is to assist Mr. McComas in the prosecuting attorneys, and watching Kennett with an expression of consuming hate, was Alfred B. Lawson, the nineteen-year-old son of tha dead detective. The boy's one desire is to see the slayer of his father punished to the full extent of the law, and, with his thin, pale face and burning eyes, he looked the incarnate spirit of vengence.

It was 10:20 before the jury-box was he looked the incarnate spirit of vengeance.

It was 10:30 before the jury-box was filled from among the members of the term trial jury who were present in the room, and the usual close questioning and challenging proceeded. They were old, experienced jurors, and had not an opinion among them as to the merits of the case, no connection with the attorneys on either side, no personal knowledge of either the defendant or the deceased, no prejudice either for or against capital punishment, and were evidently in the enviable mental condition of the "jolly young waterman" famed in song and story, whose crystal conscience and well-regulated brain enabled him to "row along thinking of nothing at all."

In spite of this, the jury-box was swept nearly clean when it came to the peremptory challenge, only to be filled again and again with the like result. One man only admitted any business connection with the District Attorney's office, and he, being built on the plan of George W. bravely owned to having once hauled some coal for Maj. Donnell.

At noon a special venire of twenty-five men was ordered, and at 2 p.m., when the court again convened, Under

Maj. Donnell.

At noon a special venire of twenty-five men was ordered, and at 2 p.m., when the court again convened, Under Sheriff Clement was present with a smile of calm triumph illuminating his face, and the twenty-five men in tow. These were called to their feet, and lined up outside the railing to answer to their names and state the distance of their names from the Courthouse. One mile was the favorite and minimum distance, and from that it ranged up to the eighty miles which intervened between the Superior Court and the residence of an honest granger from Gorman Station.

Twenty-four men were sworn and questioned as to their qualifications. One man was promptly "fired" because he had the misfortune not to be a citizen of the United States, and another who acknowledged that he had simply he had the misfortune not to be a citizen of the United States, and another who acknowledged that he had simply declared his good intentions on the subject, shared the fate of his predecessor, although it was ascertained that he belonged to the good old Anglo-Saxon family of Smiths. Others were challenged on the tax question, beginning with a mild man who confessed to paying taxes only on his wife's property, and so many were found whose names were not on the assessment roll that the special venire was winnowed down to thirteen men before the examination commenced.

The jury-box was filled again, and the stereotyped questions were asked again and again, until the venire was exhausted, leaving two chairs in the jury-box still vacant. The prosecution wished to fill them from the jury which had just convicted Frank Roemer, but the defense objected that a return to the term trial jury, after the issue of a special venire was illegal, and the objection was sustained by the court.

Another special venire was issued by Judge Smith, and the Sheriff was required to produce fifteen more men at 10 a.m. today. As the proceedings were thus blocked, and it was after 4 o'clock, the court then adjourned until this morning, when the two jurors will be morning, when the two jurors will be selected, and the first witnesses examined.

The history of the case is too well known to need repetition in advance of the evidence as it develops in the trial. F. B. Kennett was a detective in the employ of A. B. Lawson, but had left him and was employed by George T. Insley when the trouble occurred, on June 10. Kennett believed himself to be defrauded of the money which might have given his dying wife the medicines and nourishment required to give her a chance of life. Mrs. Kennett died a few days-before the shooting occurred, and her husband, crazed with grief, went again to Lawson and asked to see him in his private office. What occurred there is positively known to only one living man, the defendant in this case. In a few moments, three shots rang out from the innner room, and the door was thrown open only to find Lawson breathing his last, with three builet wounds in his body, and Kennett standing with the smoking revolver in his hand. The murderer at once gave himself up, acknowledging the crime, and expressing not the slightest contrition for his dreadful deed.

What the motives were, and what the rose to deliver the long-expected, verdict, all other proceedings in the courtroom stopped, and a dead silence reigned while E. H. Dalton, the foreman of the jury, stepped forward and pronounced the fateful words: "We find the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree."

There was a start of surprise throughout the courtroom, for the general expectation was a verdict of acquittal.

arroughout the courtroom, for the general expectation was a verdict of acquittal.

The attorneys for the defense requested the polling of the jury, and, one by one, each pronounced the verdict as his own. Roemer took his punishment like a man, though his white young face showed his full realization of the fact that the hasty action of a moment had resulted in the biotting out of the best years of his life behind prison walls.

It was 2:45 o'clock before the jury came in, having deliberated part of the night and all day over the case before them. They were hard at work over the instructions at 5 a.m., and at 7 a.m., Mrs. Ullery, the widow of the murdered man, was in court, eager for vengeance upon the slayer of her husband. The probable verdict was the theme of general discussion throughout the early part of the day and the return of the produce vertice was the theme of general discussion throughout the early-part of the day, and the return of the jury was impatiently awaited by every-one who had watched the case. Senteace will be pronounced on Mon-day, October 28, at 10 a.m.

Extremes Meet.

A mixture of the emblems of a Christian heaven and the Chinese hell, floating sociably around in an inundated stationery store opposite the Catholic Cathedral on Main street, was shown yesterday, in the trial of a suit brought by H. G. Mason vs. Sarnow et al. Mr. Mason acts as the assignee of J. J. Doran, the owner of the shop in question, and the defendants are the owners of a lodging-house on the floor above. The water-pipes of these rooms got out of order, and Mr. Doran awoke one morning to find his store afloat with the overflow from above, and crucifixes and firecrackers swimming abounds in unwontedly peaceful companionship. Damages in the sum of $57 were recovered in the court below, but the case as appealed has not yet been decided by Judge York, before whom it was tried. ing sociably around in an inundated

An Enterprising Agent.

A little tale of the boundless effrontery of the typical sewing-machine agent was aired yesterday in Judgs McKinley's court, during the trial of the appeal case of J. M. Wickersham vs. Mrs. Julian Baker. Wickersham vs. Mrs. Julian Baker. Wickersham is the agent for the Standard Sewing Machine Company, and, according to the custom of agents, he carted a machine out to the Baker residence and insisted upon leaving it on trial. Mrs. Baker's husband was absent at the time, and she insisted that she could not buy the machine, but it was left just the same.

When Mr. Baker returned he vetoed the purchase of the machine, saying was notified, but did not take the machine away.

The Bakers accordingly boxed it up and put it in the tank-house to await removal. It stayed there a year, and then Wickersham brought suit for $85, the purchase price. The lower court decided against him, and it remains to be seen whether or not the decision will be sustained.

The officer was not hurt, but his trousers were torn.

Stories still differ as to the altercation between Kirk and Nichols. The conductor seems to have had some proceation for ejecting Kirk from the car, but several witnesses of the occurrence state that Nichols was unnecessarily brutal. The conductor maintains that he was justified in his acts, but the case has an ugly look, and he will be lucky if he escapes severe punishment by the court.

San Francisco says persons who keep close to the railroad magnates on this Coast have always affirmed that they would not charge wheelmen for trans-porting their bicycles when the wheels are accompanied by the owners. In an interview with T. H. Goodman, he said: "I do not know that we will make any change from the present custom. The transcontinental lines, with headquarters in Chicago, are now considering the matter, but any action they may take will not affect our arrangements on this Coast; it will relate olely to through business.

From another quarter it was learned that the Southern Pacific Company was catering to the wheelmen's interests catering to the wheelmen's interests in the southern part of the State. They have just built a modern track at Santa Monica, and will themselves promote races as often as possible. In addition to this they propose building a cement track along the line of their road from Los Angeles to Santa Monica, a distance of eighteen miles. To warrant them in going to this expense they will make a charge of 25 cents to make the trip, believing the riders will gladly pay that sum for the privilege of riding the distance on such a surface.

Charles M. Murphy of the Bay City Wheelman had such a trial in view some months since, but could not find a suitable path on which to make the test. Such an effort would attract widespread attention, and if a low mark was set it would always be spoken of as the fastest time accomplished, although no cycling authorities would ever accept it.

BAD PLACE FOR WATER TANKS. BAD PLACE FOR WATER TANKS.

A correspondent, signing himself "Tourist," writes from Santa Barbara:
"I want through your columns to call the attention of the Board of Health to the drinking tanks in the Pullman Jourist cars running in and out of your fovely city. Is it nice or healthful for such drinking tanks to be placed with foose covers in a water closet? Many people arrive sick from their ride. May not these same water fountains cause some of this sickness? Think of it, a drinking fountain open, which is often the case, in a toilet-room on a railroad train. I want to invite the Board of Health in, and let them try it, after the train has been on the road a week. I write this hoping the matter can, and I write this hoping the matter can, and will be, attended to at once.

As related in the Pasadena column the rate war among the four roads be-tween that place and Los Angeles promises to become interesting. The promises to become interesting. The one way-rate, after next Sunday, will be 10 cents by the steam roads and the round-trip rate on the electric line 25 cents. There are prospects of the rate going even lower.

As related elsewhere, Col. W. D. San-born, general Pacific Coast agent for the Burlington route, was married yes-terday at Pasadena. The genial colonel, who has many friends here, is receiv-ing their congratulations at the West-minster.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Adam. The bride, a rail and slender brunette, was charming in a dainty gown of cream novelty silk, with garniture of Valenciennes lace and diamond ornaments. Her long veil was fastened with a knot of orange blossoms, and she carried a cluster of white carnations. The maid of honor, Miss Rachel Valle, and the bridesmaids, Miss Dolly Schmidt and Miss Tina Georger, were all in decollete gowns of pink china silk, and carried clusters of pink carnations. The best man was Joseph Lieber, and the ushers, E. W. Hunter and Otto Lieber. The music at the church was under the direction of Karl S. Thrower. The "Lohengrin Bridal Chorus" was sung by Mmes. H. Held, Brown, Loomis, Maviroane, Misses J. Heller and Santous, Messrs. A. W. Thornton, Joseph Scott, Rich, Rarry and J. Jocaiman. The Mendelssohn "Wedding March" was brilliantly executed by the young organist of the Lady of the Angels Church, Teresa F. Sullivan. In the evening, an elaborate dinner was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Valle at the Nadeau Hotel, by the bride's mother. The long table was decorated with bowls of flowers. Lowinsky's Orchestra rendered delightful music during the dinner. After the dinner an enjoyable programme was given. Prof. Thrower sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Dolly Schmidt; Miss Rachel Valle sang the "Angels' Serenade," with violin obligato by Mrs. Kohler; Mrs. Albert Cohn gave a piano solo, and also sang a duet with Prof. Thrower and Miss. Lydia Vickrey randered a plano solo, Mr. and Mrs. Valle will live at No. 130 Wilmington street.

They may relieve the more distressing symptoms and pave the way for treatment. But they cannot cure if their action is opposed by improper ways of life, excesses and over-sating. We state these facts simply to show you that we are not advertising cure-alls or seeking to humbug the public. There are no specifics, strictly speaking, for any diseases. That is to say, there are no medicines which will cure disease if the causes of the disease are not removed. We prefer to give you advice by which your diet and your way of life may assist your recovery rather than to attempt to make our remedies carry the load of the disease and of improper living also. If you are sincere in your wish to become well you will see the force of this reasoning. We practice.

Diagnosis by the Pulse,
Which is not so much of a mystery as it appears to be at first. In fact, it is much more certain than the ordinary guesswork of looking at the tongue and inquiring symptoms. The pulse never tells a lie. The principles upon which this diagnosis is based are truly scientific. They have been tested in hundreds of thougands of cases. They are acquired only by years of practice, and demand for their successful application a person of sensitive nerves and great power of close concentration of thought. The first diagnosis by this method locates the seat of the disorder. Subsequent diagnoses from day to day note the effect of the remedies employed, define the extent to which the derangement has gone and indicate the probable length of time necessary for a cure. One experience with this method of diagnosis will convince you of its reliability. We treat

Both acute and chronic. We are unusually successful in the treatment of fevers and simi-lar acute disorders. Our method of giving medicine, namely in the form of hot drinks, is medicine, namely in the form of hot drinks, is one that very quickly reaches the circulation and through the blood the seatof inflammation, fever or other derangement. We do not believe in "letting a fever run." It should invariably be broken up at the outset. Our treatment of chronic cases is directed toward restoring the normal functions of the vital organs, a derangement of which is responsible for all chronic disorders, when a permanent cure necessarily follows. The Use of Non-poisonous Remedies.

The Use of Non-poisonous Remedies.

We do not attempt to cure a disease by creating a different disease with the same symptoms, or by setting up a new disease which may be more destructive in its final results than the original. If you are treated by us you will form no morphine or alcohol habits, nor will you be obliged to go to the hot springs to boil the mercury and other mineral poisons in common prescriptions out of your system. Our remedies are exclusively non-poisonous herbs, barks, flowers, roots and similar vegetable substances. We can soon convince you that these remedies, when skilfully applied, are as powerful as the concentrated poisons so frequently prescribed by American physicians. They are all imported from China. They have been tested for cepturies. From ten to sixteen are combined in a single prescription and their united effect is rapid, potent and lasting. We can cite you to scoroes of cures wrought by purely vegetable remedies in cases where the poisonous, inorganic remedies of the American dector had been poweriess to give the slightyst benefit. Many of these were cases of tenacious diseases of long standing, some of which had threatened the very life of the persons afflicted. As alds and assistants to the medicines which we employ we believe in the benefits of Dict and Regimen.

Medicines alone will rarely cure disease. They may relieve the more distressing symptoms.

Prison for Burglary.

PHOENIX, Oct. 23.—(Regular Correspondence.) The bugaboo Harrison act, which provides a 4 per cent. limitation of indebtedness in the Territories, is again the basis of ittigation against county expenditures. In Arizona whenever an unpopular bill is passed providing for our lays, the issuing of bonds or the establishment of an office, say, the Harrison act is the way out always sought. In Phoenix the Board of Supervisors are contesting the salary of the Irrigation Commissioner for September. There is no doubt or dispute as to the services, but by close figuring, it has been found that Maricopa county is in debt already over the prescribed 4 per cent., so the fight is made on that ground. The case of County Immigration Commissioner Jordan, a suit against the county-for salary amounting to $50, was on yesterday before Justice Johnston. Only two witnesses were on hand. The claimant appeared on his own behalf. He testified as to the services—the writing of twenty or thirty letters a day pertaining to the county, and the preparation of a book on the resources of the county. The other witness was Brent Kirkland, an expert in county finances. He did the figuring on the 4 per cent. question. He showed the total tax valuation this year as $7,798,102, and placed the bonded debt at $316,000. As 4 per cent. of the sum of the present valuation is $31,900, the limit was declared to have been exceeded. The stand was made by the county's side that the claim was not an urgent county charge, and that the Harrison act limit had been exceeded. Atty.-Gen. Satterwhite, who had declared that the Immigration Commissioner's claim was just, was quoted by Asst.-Dist.-Atty. Bennett as having elsewhere contended that a Commissioner's claim was just, was quoted by Asst.-Dist.-Atty. Bennett as having elsewhere contended that quoted by Asst.-Dist.-Atty. Bennett as having elsewhere contended that a charge on the county when the county debt has reached the limit, "if not necessary to the support of the county, is void," For the claimant it was argued, among other points, that the cash in the treasury and the taxes should be considered as assets, whereby the debt limit would be below the prescribed 4 per cent. Justice Johnston took the case under advisement. It will be carried through to the Supreme Court, in any event.

THE ANTI-HUGHES CONTEST RE-

THE ANTI-HUGHES CONTEST RE-NEWED.

A telegram from Washington reports a renewal of hostilities against Gov. Hughes. This fight was supposed to be over, but itsnow looks as though it will never be till the end of Hughes's term, whenever that may be. Morris Gold-water of Prescott is in Washington, the telegram says. He is a candidate for the successorship of Hughes, and he is there probably on political business. The charges filed list June against the Governor have not yet been acted on, and nothing can be done with the same till the return of Secretary Hoke Staith, now in Atlanta. It is given out that the fight against the Governor will be renewed. Goldwater refuses to talk on the matter.

AN UNINTENTIONAL OFFENDER.

The postoffice people found in the mail a few days ago a paper, inside of which was a letter, a little of the letter being visible. The matter was referred to Postoffice Inspector Waterbury, who, a day or two ago, summoned the signer of the letter. The offender proved to be a decrepit and innocent-appearing old man. To the inspector's question as to whether he was an honest man he replied, "I think I be." The letter was then produced, recognized and acknowledged. The enormity of the offense was explained and the old gentleman was asked what they should do about it. "I don't know," he replied, "unless you hang me, for I have no money." Hanging, it was explained, was out of the question. A minumum fine of 310 was imposed, and time given the offender to secure it. The inspector will recommend that the department "emit the fine.

BLOODHOUNDS TO CATCH FUGY. AN UNINTENTIONAL OFFENDER.

The animals are described as genuine man-hunters, with good records for hauling down escaped convicts. On one occasion they trailed a man thirty-six hours, for a distance of seventy miles, over a river and numerous smaller streams, finally finding him. With the ex-scouts and old-timers, skilled in trailing in Arizona, saying nothing of Indian trailers, the use of bloodhounds would seem unnecessary. Not 1 per cent. of fugitives escape in Arizona.

OPIUM DENS RAIDED.

The new ordinance passed by the City Council will have a severe test shortly. Last night Marshal Clark made a grand raid of the First-street opium foints. The result was a disappointingly small haul. However, five of the hop fiends were secured, two of them, a man and a woman, white, and the rest Chinese. An expensive opium smoking outfit was also secured. The prisoners have engaged Cox & Willis to defend them, and the new ordinance will get a thorough test.

Among the teams expected are those from Phoenix, Tucson. Graham county, Prescott, Tucson, Graham county, Prescott Whipple, Williams and Flagstaff.

CHINATOWN MUST GO.

Two very big birds, indeed, have just been killed here with one stone. Chinatown is doomed and the finest brick block in Arizona will replace it. On First street, between Adams and Washington, lies Chinatown. It is a nasty nest of vile-smelling, ungodly, subterranean passages, holes and shacks. Here the population is greater to the square yard than elsewhere in the Territory. This den will be razed next month. A syndicate of business men has subscribed to and formed a stock company. They purchased the site last Monday, price $15,000. Tuesday the Chinamen were ordered to leave by the 1st of November. Next month a handsome brick block, four stories high, facing 137½ feet on First sureet and 100 feet on Adams, will be erected. It will be a store and office building. The estimated cost is from $100,000, to $75,000. CHINATOWN MUST GO.

les it commands. Better quarters are emanded, and will be had. With the hange will come the ever-ready question of a site. A postoffice site is an important adjunct to business locations. Already there is planning for he new location, although the advertisement for bids appeared only this morning. Bids have been asked on a structure as follows: "Building to be of brick, and as near fire-proof as possible, with a floor space of not less than 23x75 feet, and a fire and burglar proof vault therein. The lessor to furnish a complete equipment of lock boxes and drawers, of a pattern to be approved by the Postoffice Department, and not less than 1900 in number, also the latest improved from pouch rack, stamping table, mailing case, paper case, registry and money order cases and fixtures, postage and stamped envelops case, "etc., etc.

A POOR-FARM WANTED.

The expense of keeping the indigent poor has become a very big itom in the oulay of the county funds. In view of this fact and the fact that Phoenix is located in an ideal farming country, the suggestion that a poorfarm be started has arisen. The Board of Supervisors has decided to have such a farm and are now advertising for 160 acres for the purpose, located conveniently to Phoenix. Here the indigents will be placed at work, and they will partly sustain themselves. It is also intended to move the County Hospital upon the farm and have those people who are able assist in farming it.

Three carloads of race horses will be brought here from Prescott to winter, conditional on the arranging of one racing meet during the winter. There is no doubt that the meet will be provided. This question of wintering racing stock here is becoming important. The winter climate here is unexcelled, and feed can be had for next to nothing. Last year three Eastern race horses were wintered here as an experiment. The experiment proved entirely satisfactory.

TUCSON.

TCUSON, Oct. 23.—(Regular Correspondence.) Two years of freedom was the remarkable stake for which two BLOODHOUNDS TO CATCH FUGI. prisoners played a game of cards in the County Jail recently. Drew and the County Jail recently. Drew and Davis, tramps, were arrested for entering the residence of A. V. Grossetta. The evidence against them was conclusive. The fact became evident to them that both would go up unless one assumed the guilt and swore to the innocence of the other. They played a game of cards to decide who should be the guilty man and serve a term for it. Davis lost. True to the agreemtn, in the District Court he swore that Drew had no hand in the robbery. Drew was discharged Monday, and Davis got two years at Yums for burgiary. The grand jury has ceased its labors. Out of thirty-eight charges twenty-five indictments were returned, eight of them for murder. The most important of the cases are those of Mrs. Cannon, charged with the murder of her husband, and Lawrence Lemon, who killed Thomas Shean at Harshaw. Mrs. Cannon, when arraigned to plead, stood up, and, in a theatrical matiner, pleaded "not guilty." Her trial was set for November 6.

A MUSICAL PLAGIARISM. The authorship of the famous 'Washington Post March,' broughtout by Sousa's Band, and in the past year or more a very popular piece of music, is said here not to be Sousa's at all, but really an old Mexican quickstep. Leader Ronstandt of the Philharmonic Band here says of the matter: Fifteen years ago "Sivase Usted Pasar," a polka quickstep, was published in the City of Mexico by Wagner & Levien. The title, which means an invitation to enter, applied to a building owned by the publishers, the inscription over the door being the same. The feature of the titlepage was the picture of this building. The music was played, had a moderate run, and was forgotten. A copy of the piece found its way to Tucson ten years ago. Monday this copy was resurrected by Mr. Ronstadt. He pronounces the music as identical throughout with the stirring notes of the "Washington Post March." The authorship of the famous 'Wash-

BEST GIRL AND BURGLAR. BEST GIRL AND BURGLAR.

A well-known Tucson young man was recently between the devil and the deep sea, otherwise, his best girl and burglars. He was calling on the young lady and staid late, in fact, till the hour when burglars go forth. The lights were probably not so high as they might have been, and the burglars came there to break through and steal. The young woman was alert. Promptly she "sicked" the young man on the burglars. He protested that he had no gun. She had one. This she got, and a candle, and sent the young man poking around among the rose bushes for burglars. He hoped he wouldn't find any and he didn't, but he maintained his reputation for bravery.

A BIG BICYCLE EVENT.

The new quarter-mile and a third of a mile bicycle tracks will be brought into use for big events sooner than was expected. Tucson bicyclists are now circulating a subscription paper to bring here the party of eighteen cracka-jack riders who started from St. Louis for the California racing circuit the 8th. The cracks will open at San Francisco the 1st of November, closing at Riverside the 30th. Thence they will come to Arizona, making Phoenix and Tucson. They are expected here soon after December 1.

The Tucson Ball Club is practicing for a series of championship games with the Fort Grant club. They expect to regain the pennant. A BIG BICYCLE EVENT.

YUMA, Oct. 23.—(Regular Correspondence.) A landlord named Stoffela has come to realize that property once rented is not his own to break into once rented is not his own to break into and use, and more particularly for purposes of laying out for burial there of a stray corpse. One Johnson was found dead by Stoffela up the Gila Valley not far from Gold Rock, Stoffela owns a house at Gold Rock, rented to Carmen Sortillon. He took the body to the house. Carmen was not at home. He accordingly broke into the place and did the handsome by the corpse with his tenant's bedding and furniture. She objected on her return, and brought suit for damages. A Jury awarded her $100.

and means much for the future of Yuma.

The mining camps tributary to Yuma on the California side seem to have been utterly forgotten by the authorities of that State. For the great camps of Gold Rock, Cargo Muchacho, Ogliby and Picacho there is no officer of the law, constable nor justice of the peace mearer than Banning, 100 miles away. The same state of affairs applies to the school question. Gold Rock, with 248, Cargo Muchacho with 23, El Rio with 24, and Picacho with 80 children of school age, are without schools, and yet California boasts of her excellent school system.

TEMPE.

TEMPE. Oct. 23.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Phoenix, Tempe and Mesa Railroad is rapidly coming into being. The rails arrived ten days ago, and now the bolits and plates are also on hand. The grading and laying of ties has already been done. In consequence no further delays will occur. Track is being laid rapidly. The locomotive for the first time crossed Mili avenue a night or two ago. Trains will be running to Mesa within three weeks. A change of officials of the new branch decoursed.

A change of officials of the new branch occurred Monday. J. C. Goodwin, secretary, resigned. They were replaced by Col. C. S. Marten as president and C. H. Gordon as secretary.

A quarter-mile dash for the horses themselves, in which about $1000 of outside money changed hands, took place at the track here recently. The racewas between a bay mare wined by T. Banta of Mesa and a mare owned by Mark Daley. The Daley animal won. No time was taken.

Deputy Burton of Mesa passed through here last night from Mesa with Terebio Miranda, held for the grand fury in the sum of $500 for assault with intent to kill. The charge will probably be changed to murder. Miranda and another Mexican had a spree Saturday night. During its progress Miranda carved his countryman, using a long-bladed pocket-knife. One lung was dangerously cut. The injury will probably be fatal.

Sam Hughes, a leading cattle rancier, is in from the ranges. He says that, owing to heavy sales of cattle for the past year, they are scarcer on the ranges than in years. The reverse is the case with horses, however. They are roaming everywhere, wild norses, downed out.

THE RATE WAR WAXING WARMER

Wedding at the Universalist Church-The Need of a Stone Pile for Weary Willies-Institu-tution for a Masonic Lodge.

PASADENA, Oct. 24.-(Regular Cor. respondence.) The Universalist Children was the scene of an impressive wedding ceremony this morning, when Col. Willam David Sanborn, general agent or David S Sanborn, general agent on Coast of the Chicago, Buriington and Quincy road, was united in marriage to Virginia de Greayer, daughter of the late John M. Murphy of San Jose. The prominence of the contracting parties made the event one of unusual interest, as Col. Sanborn is known, perhaps, as widely as any railroad man the the West, and the bride is the daughter of one of the survivors the ill-fated Donner party. Sanborn is the son of Hon. David San-born, president of the Second National Bank of Galesburg, Ill., and one of the founders of Sanborn University. Rev. Dr. Conger, who performed the cere-mony, has been a life-long friend of the Sanborn family, and it was on this the Sanborn family, and it was on this account that the wedding was performed here. The ladies of the church had decorated the auditorium, platform, choir-ralling and reading desk most beautifully and appropriately with cosmos, carnations, callas, roses and other beautiful flowers, and the bridal couple walked down the siste which was bordered by scattered red and white roses, at exactly 11 o'clock a.m., the organ playing "Oh Promise Me." The Swedish wedding march was played as the recessional. Col. and Mrs. Sanborn will remain in Los Angeles for a short time, on their way to their home in San Francisco.

THE RAILWAY SITUATION.

THE RAILWAY SITUATION. The Santa Fe road has announce that it will make a change in its local that it will make a change in its local time service, to go into effect next Tuesday. It promises a great improvement in the accommodations for, the local travel, and the number of trains will be so increased that the evening travel may also be accommodated. The Terminal's new 10 cent rate will go into effect Sunday, but the electric road will institute a 25-cent round trip rate on Saturday. The Santa Fe will reduce the fare to 10 cents for a single fare, with the institution of the new schedule. Ten ride tickets will be sold at that rate, but the round trip rate will remain as it is. There is much comment on the situation, and many predictions made that a 10-cent rate will be established on all the lines, in the course of the next few months. During the season of tourist travel, it is thought that such a move would be of great ultimate benefit to the roads themselves, as well as to the town, as houndreds of people would come out to Pasadena, who, perhaps, would not otherwise do so. The Southern Pacific keeps its rate of fare a deep secret, but as it will come in last, will be able to "see" the other roads and "go them one better." It is unofficially announced that it will start with a 20-cent rate for a round trip.

A CRYING NEED.

Pasadena needs, above other things just now, at the beginning of the winter season, a good big hard stone pile, surrounded by a high board fence, where the Weary Willies who find their way into the community may be given healthful and cheering exercise, and be made to earn their bread. Tenderhearted philanthropists have an unrivalled opportunity to benefit their kind by establishing this great aid to morals and sober living in our midst, and making it a great incitement to temperance. The hobos are beginning to come, and were it known that there was a large and obdurate stone-pile convenient to our police courts, at convenient to our police courts, at least one class of tourists, the brake-beam kind, would avoid Pasadena, for the very idea of a hard day's work the very idea of a hard day's work would overcome the many climatic and scenic attractions of our charming town, and render it to them a howling wilderness. Broken stone will soon be needed in large quantities for the paying of East Colorado street, and let he vag contribute his work to the taxpayer, who has done enough for the hobo. Turn about is fair play.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 24.—(Regular Cor-respondence.) The case of Chris Miller, who was arrested for selling liquor without a license, came up before City Recorder Matthews this morning at 10 o'clock. The right leg of his overalls caught in the key of the knuckle on the main shaft of the mixer, and Mr. Bryant was speedily pulled down to the revolving iron, and was unable to extricate himself. He called for help, and struggled to keep his head out of danger. The machine: y was stopped as soon as possible, but not until the victim of the accident had received a badly-cut and bruised leg. He was rescued speedily from his painful position, and taken to his room at the Jennings House, where he immediately received medical aid. Fortunately no bones were broken, but some sharp piece of the machinery, probably the key which caught his overalls, had cut a deep and ragged gash about half way between the knee and ankle, extending from the point of the shin about three inches on the inside of the leg. The periosteum was cut through and the bone itself was nicked. There were also a number of bruises in close proximity to the cut. The injured man is a brother of W. F. ANOTHER INDUSTRY. The Times correspondent has been reliably informed that an undertaking and the product, as already tested by experts, shows qualities that exceed that of the celebrated Portland cement.

The government test for first-class cement is 150 pounds to the square lnch, as made from the little specially prepared bricklets, and it is claimed now that the product from this new mine that has been located has had tests going much higher than that which is required by the government. If this be true, the new find promises to be one of the most valuable mineral industries in Southern California.

The mine is located near the head of Aliso Canyon, near the residence of L. Moulton, on the side of a small mountain, and experts claim that in all probability there are "oceans" of the stuff in a large portion of the coast hills near Laguna.

San Francisco capital is interested in the new industry, and extensive developments will quite likely be made now very soon.

The number of instruments received at the Recorder's office during the past two or three weeks indicate quite a movement in real estate, fully half of them being deeds. A number of the transfers have been quite large. The number of mortgages have fallen off over previous fillings, and releases have increased. A pretty healthy state of affairs.

SANTA MONICA.

A Social Event—Williams's Funeral—Other Local Events.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 24.—(Regular Correspondence.) Yesterday was Mrs. S. M. Carpenter's birthday anniversary, and a few of the Sistera of the Eastern Star concluded to end the day in a manner that would cause her to remember the occasion pleasantly, so they assembled to the number of about thirty at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Josie Dexter, on Third street, and then induced Mrs. Carpenter just to run in for a few moments informally. Her advent into the well-filled rooms was informal enough to attest the success of the surprise. After the first plunge, however, she entered into the genial spirit of the occasion, and a most enjoyable evening followed, enlivened with drive whist and refreshments, and concluding with the presentation to Mrs. Carpenter of a handsome rocking chair, with an adjuration that she make good and sufficient use of it, even during her "busy day."

Mr. Bigelow was the groom's best man, and Mr. Redington and Mr. Cowles officiated as ushers. Among the relatives of the young pair in attendance were Mrs. Ferris of San Diego, a cousin of the bride, who wors a rich gown of dark blue veivet, and Mrs. Dr. Boerieke of San Francisco, Mr. Fay's sister, a beautiful young matron, who, being in half-mourning for her mother, wore a pretty summer silk, corded and dotted with black, with a corsage and full sleeves of white chiffon, trimmed with magnificent point lace. In her hand she carried a black ostrich fan, and her large white hat of chenille braid was trimmed with white chiffon and black plumes.

Much regret was expressed over the absence of Mrs. Boericke's charming little twin daughters, Ruth and Dorothy, who were to have acted as bridesmaids, but who were slightly ailing at the time the mother was obliged to leave San Francisco, so that it was not deemed prudent to bring them. The little ones sent their own exquisite remembrance to the bride, however, in the form of a prayer-book of unique design, which the bride carried in her hand. Music was furnished by Schuy's quartette.

NETA'S MARBLE HEART.

WITH A GLAD HAND.

Twenty-one-year-old Girl Who Ran an Office, Four Men and a Typewriter and Then Ran Foul of the Postal Authorities.

Evidence in the case of the United States vs. Neta L. Willard, alias Prin-cess Willard, alias May Willard; C. D. Willard, A. P. Willard and F. A. Wil-Willard, A. P. Willard and F. A. Willard, In which the fair Neta is charged with extending the glad hand to numerous freckled and feeble-minded women by means of long motherly letters and then, after these letters had produced a large amount of money, with giving the same confiding females the grand ha ha, and marble heart, began grand ha ha, and marble heart, began yesterday in the United States District Court before Judge Wellborn and a jury. Neta isn't much of a woman in size and is only about 21 years old, but there is compressed into her Jaunty little frame all the executive power of a veteran commander, the sedate primness of a backwoods schoolma'm, the secretiveness of an oyster and the letterwriting abilities of a lovestick maiden in an Adamless Eden. She dresses well, has plenty of pleasant features in both face and form, and in exclusive circles would probably be lauded as "the dearest little body alive." Among the gay and festive members of society she would soon be halled as "all right, all right." Neta is elastic and would grace with success almost any grade of society.

E. H. Pinning was the first witness with success almost any grade of society.

E. H. Pinning was the first witness called for the prosecution and testified that, in August, 1894, he was janitor of the building at No. 115½ North Main street and knew the defendants. They had occupied rooms 9, 10 and 11, and were engaged in manufacturing tollet articles. "I rented the room," said the witness, "to the elderly defendant, after having had a talk with the husband of Mrs. Neta L. Willard and asking him what the four wanted the room for."

Mary V. Bond took the stand and said she lived in Colusa City and was 13 years old. She had noticed in the Colusa Sun of August 11, 1894, an advertisement signed by Neta L. Willard for honest ladies to do easy work at home for 115 a week. She had answered the advertisements and received in wards. cortises sun of August 11, 1832, an anvertisement signed by Neta L. Willard for honest ladies to do easy work at home for $15 a week. She had answered the advertisement and received in reply a letter from Mrs. Willard. The letter was shown by Dist.-Atty. Davies to the witness, and identified, but, being the same as set forth in the indictment, was not read to the jury. The purport of the letter was that. Mrs. Willard would make Miss Bond the exclusive agent of the territory adjacent to Colusa City if she would forward $42 for a gross of "Beauty Wonder," which she, as agent, was to forward to those who ordered through twelve supposititious solicitors in the Colusa territory.
The one who secured the position would thous solicitors in the Colusa territory. The one who secured the position would not have to solicit, but would be expected to conduct the correspondence incident to the agency. The 342 was merely to cover the cost of the gross of the "wonder." and would be returned in the shape of payments by a large number of purchasers, who had already ordered the Wonder, according to the letter.

The witness did not have $42, but sent $1 for two trial bottles of the Wonder. She afterward sent $29 for part of a gross of the Wonder, and received a half gross with the information that of a gross of the Wonder, and received a half gross with the information that the half gross was worth $21, and she would be charged with $1 on the firm's books. There were sent with this letter also the names of twelve women living in different parts of the State, but none of them were known to the witness, and none lived in Colusa county. Witness had written to the twelve women, but never received any reply. Mrs. Willard had sent circulars and newspaper clippings to her. The clippings were read to the jury. One, with the unmistakable ear-marks of a "puff," described the amazement which nearly paralyzed a supposititious reporter, who stood in front of a show window and watched a perfect army of women gaze rapturously at an exhibition of Neta's "Wonder." Another told of a mythical woman whose left cheek had been under treatment for the removal of "blackheads," and invited the public at large to call and inspect. The third one, described an establishment, supposed to be located at Jefferson and Eastern avenue, entering into minute details and giving the manager. Neta L. Willard, a big "send-off" in 'anguage' suspiciously like the language used in Neta's letter.

No orders were turned over to Miss Bond by Mrs. Willard or any one else, and no assistance was given her by Mrs. Willard in disposing of the "Won-

The wedding of Miss Rose J. Roth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Roth, to De Roy Gates, took place Wednesday evening at $:30 at the residence of the bride's parents, on West Seventeenth street. The bride wore a dainty gown of white silk mulie, with garniture of point lace and white satin ribbons. She carried a bunch of pink sweet peas and malden-hair fern, and a cluster of the same flower was caught in her hair. The bridesmaids, Miss Mabel Lanner and Miss Katle Fellner, wore white dotted Swiss, trimmed with lace, and carried pink sweet peas. The ushers were Messrs. Frazer and Harry Fleming. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruby Riggins. The bridal party was preceded by little Edna Gates in white dotted swiss and ribbons, and Walter Roth, who untied the broad white satin ribbons that defined the space reserved for the party. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Vall, beneath a graceful arch of smilax, caught with white chrysanthemums. Directly above the couple was suspended a true-love knot of white chrysanthemums, and at either side of the arch were grouped large potted palms and ferns. Masses of chrysanthemums were arranged about the rooms, and the mantel in the back drawing-room was banked with pink chrysanthemums ferns and smilax. The supper was served in a large tent erected on the lawn. The tables were prettily decorated, the bride's in white and the others in pink, Quantities of handsome presents were received. During the evening Miss Lanner and little Annie Zucker recited, and Mr. Frazer sang. ness, and none lived in Colusa county. Witness had written to the twelve women, but never received any reply. Mrs. Willard had sent circulars and newspaper clippings to her. The clippings were read to the jury. One, with the unmistakable ear-marks of a "puff," described the amazement which nearly paralyzed a supposititious reporter, who stood in front of a show window and watched a perfect army of women gaze rapturously at an exhibition of Neta's "Wonder." Another told of a mythical woman whose left cheek had been under treatment for the removal of "blackheads," and invited the public at large to call and inspect. The third one, described an establishment, supposed to be located at Jefferson and Eastern avenue, entering into minute details and giving the manager, Netal. Willard a big "send-off" in 'anguage suspiciously like the language used in Neta's letter.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

SMALL CANNERIES. It is generally taken for granted that to establish and run a cannery requires a large amount of money, and for this reason much fruit is allowed to go to waste every year that might otherwise be saved. In a recent issue of the Charleston, S. C., paper, an enterprisbe saved. In a recent issue of the Charleston, S. C., paper, an enterprising young man gives the following account of how he successfully ran a small factory with a nominal outlay of money:

"When the Prosperity Canning Company started, I worked with it for two seasons as capper and tipper. Becoming familiar with the business, I could see no reason why the canning of fruits and vegetables should cost so much. Last season I concluded to try an experiment. I made an outfit myself, using galvanized iron for the boiler. The sides, ends and partitions I made of 2x19-inches poplar, making the boiler eight feet long, three feet wide, and eighteen inches deep, in three compartments, one for scalding tomatoes, one for exhausting, and one for processing. The crates and trays I made of wood also, because it is so much lighter than iron. I used a simple crane for htting the crates from the boiler. I made the furnace for heating the irons from sheet iron, somewhat larger than a tinner's furnace. The whole outfit cost 10. I have built three similar outfits this season. I am doing all I can to encourage the industry, as I am sure that it will pay. Better goods can be put up, as more care is taken in these small cannerles. I put up 2700 three-pound cans of tomatoes last season, and sold every can in Newberry county, and could not supply the demand. The farm, I think, is the proper place for the cannery. The time for canning is generally a leisure one with the farmer. He can work up his surplus fruits and vegetables with his own help, not only giving work to his laborers at a time when nothing can be done on his farm, but saving the produce that would otherwise be wasted, and making a profit for himself, besides supplying his table with fruits and vegtables during the winter and carly spring, when he would be unable to obtain them from his garden and orchard."

Christianity.

Christianity.

(California Christian Advocate:)
Christianity is not an ethnic religion. finding its culmination in any single race to stagnate or die with the decay of that race. It is the absolute religion of mankind. The other religions of the world are making no advance. Christianity continues to grow both externally and internally. It has no boundary, It develops man inwardly and conserves every accession of external power. It is a part of the obligation which arises in receiving Christianity that it be extended. No people, church, or nation can long remain Christian and refuse to send the light to the darkest parts of the world.

How can the secular press escape conviction of smallness and lack of true philanthropy while it continues to cry down the only systematic effort to relieve humanity from the great miseries and wrongs under which it has groaned throughout the long, dark night of its thralldom. Christianity sizes upon all that is good and durable in all the systems of religion, but it cannot compromise with any system. It is a serious question—whether the Parliament of Religion of a few years ago has not placed Christianity in a false light. Whence comes all this talk on the part of the world about "China being fully content with her own religion," and "the ethics of Confucious being sufficient;" "why assail China with a propaganda that means the overthrow of all she holds dear," etc., etc.? Public opinion has been poisoned as to the nature and ends of Christianity. If heathenism, with its iron heel on the neck of millions, its eyes bleared with centuries of crime against humanity, its garments saturated with sensuality and sin, its black flag floating over so great a part of the world, can be invited into the drawing-room of Christian civilization to parley and negotiate with the gospel, we need not affect surprise if that same public opinion should come back at the church which coddles heathenism one day and attempts to convert it the next. tempts to convert it the next.

BANSHEE.

An aged desolation,
She sits by old Shannon's flowing,
A mother of many children,
Of-children-exited and dead;
In her home, with bent head, homeless,
Clasping her knees she sits,
Keening, keening!

And at her keene the fairy-grass
Trembies on dun and barrow;
Around the foot of her ancient crosses
The grave-grass shakes and the nettle swings
In haunted giens the meadow-sweet,
Flings to the night wind
Her mystic, mournful perfume;
The sad spearmint by holy wells,
Breathes melancholy baim.

ing one to dealers in real estate. It is true that there have not been many transactions of great importance, but the inquiry for property has been more than usually active, and the tone of the market has been good.

The inquiry for prope market has been good.

The inquiry for property on North Broadway, which was noticed by The Times last week, still keeps up. A negotiation is on foot for the sale of a large ot on Broadway, between Temple and street, which will probably be consummated during the next few days.

The principals in the transaction have not yet concluded their negotiations and do not wish to have the details made public, but it is sufficient to say that the result will show that the im-provement in this section of the busiquarter is more than a pass-Shrewd investors are beginming to fix their eyes on North Broad-way and those who get in early will come out big winners. OUTSIDE BUSINESS BLOCKS.

Quite a number of attractive business blocks have been erected at some distance from the business center during the past year. As a rule, when built in a flourishing and growing section of the town, these blocks pay the owners good interest on the investment—more so, as a rule, than is received from the more pretentious edifices on Spring street and Broadway. One of the notable blocks of this description which is just being completed is that of Clark & Bryan, at the southeast corner of Main street and Washington. The size of the lot is 134 feet on Main street by 70 feet on Washington street. The beilding is a neat one-story brick, divided into eight stores. Most of these stores are already rented. The total rent from the eight stores, and from an old building which has been moved back, will amount to about $300 a month. This pays the owners a very large interest on the cost of the building and the present value of the lot, which was purchased at a price far below its market value. This corner has for some time been quite a business center and will undoubtedly become more so from year to year.

An esteemed contemporary of The Quite a number of attractive business so from year to year.

steemed contemporary of The the Builder and Contractor, gives the following interesting figures in regard to the profits made by a Los Angeles citizen in putting up a block of Angeles citizen in putting up a block of houses for rent in Los Angeles:

"An incident showing the profits of house-renting may be cited in the case of a row of ten houses, in flats, which have lately been erected by Henry Marts on the corner of Seventh and Flower streets. Mr. Martz owned the land, over half a block; bought it, in times past, for a few dollars, and until lately has kept it vacant. He built these flats at a cost of about $2000, and has two flats of seven rooms in each house. The buildings run back about 100 feet. He rents some of these flats of $30 and some for $37.50 per month; he will collect an average of $70 per month from each house, which, having ten houses, will allow him $700 per month, or the modest income of $8400 per year; nearly 100 per cent, on his investment."

The Times has always maintained that there is plenty of money to be made in crecting houses in Los Angeles and renting the same, but it does not by any means follow that this can be done indefinitely. A time will naturally come when the owners of apartment flats and business blocks will have to look around for assistance. As long as the country surrounding Los Angeles is supported and encouraged by those who have the capital, so long will these city residences and business blocks be filled with tenants, but it is foolish to suppose that this sort of thing can continue forever unless there is something in the background to furnish a basis for the expenditure of money in rents.

These remarks are apropos of a suggestion that The Times has intimated, that there is a possibility of overbuild. Times has always maintained

These remarks are apropos of a suggestion that The Times has intimated, that there is a possibility of overbuilding the city. The main fact to bear in mind in this connection is, as The Times has always maintained, that the city must keep even pace with the surrounding country, upon which it depends for support. This is the whole question in a nutshell. You cannot get away from it. Blocks and flats are very nice to have in the family, but unless they have a rich uncle in the shape of somebody out in the country who raises pumpkins and alfalfa and hogs, and oranges and things of that sort, they will very soon be habitations for the owl and bat.

MAIN STREET

MAIN STREET.

The improved feeling on Main street noted by The Times recently still connoted by The Times recently still continues. Although prices paid on this thoroughfare are decidedly low as compared with prices on other business streets, the fact that there is a demand for property shows that the investing public is beginning to realize the truth of the statement which has been frequently made by The Times during the past year or so, namely, that the cheapest business property in Los Angeles today is that on North Broadway, between Temple and First, and on South Main street, from the junction of Broadway and Main to Washington street.

one thing that hurts the value of property on this thoroughfare is the disceputable appearance of the street, with its old shantles, coal yards and little wooden stores, which give it the concernance of a second-class country little wooden stores, which give it the appearance of a second-class country town of 10.000 population, where business is dult. If, as The Times has said, property-owners on that thoroughfare would get together in earnest, put the street in good shape, push the paving, try and have work commenced on the hotel, and stir things up generally, there would be no trouble whatever in working up a genuine boom on that thoroughfare, and the boom would be founded on merit, because there can be no doubt whatever that Main-street property is "dirt cheap" at present prices. The electrizing of the street-car line will have a good effect, but it should be backed up by other necessary improvements if the property-owners on Main street expect to see that thoroughfare once more in the position which it formerly held.

which it formerly held.

Two important sales have recently been made on South Main street. One was the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Main, 128x188 feet which was sold by Col. B. A. Kimball to S. K. Lindley for $12,000. The other was the southwest corner of Twenty-fourth and Main, 114x150 feet. sold by Mrs. Buffum to R. Stevens, for $5000, or about $44 a front foot. Both these properties are very cheap at the price, and should leave a good round profit for the purchasers within the next twelve months, should they desire to dispose of them.

The opening of the new electric ca

Sisters' Hospital has already begun to have a good effect on the demand for property in that section. One of the most sightly residence sections of Los Angeles is that known as Angeleno Heights, a large tract bounded by Bellevue avenue, Beaudry avenue and Echo Park ön the southeast, east and west, upon which are a number of fine residences. As mentioned in The Times some months ago 300 unsold lots in this tract were purchased by Maj. Kimball, who has been making some first-class improvements there, especially on Kensington Rond, a picturesque avenue, which winds around a high bluff commanding most extensive views of Elysian Park and the Cahuenga Valley. These lots are placed for sale in the hands of a gentleman who has since gone into the oil business, and has not been able to give the handling of them his attention. They have now been taken up by a real estate agent on South Broadway, who will push the sale for all it is worth.

The lots are offered at the low price of $250 to $500, at which figures they will doubtless sell rapidly.

BROADWAY BUILDING AND BOOM-Sisters' Hospital has already begun to

Although there has been, quite prop-Although there has been, quite properly, something of a pause in the jumping of prices on South Broadway, it must not be imagined that this fine thoroughfare has experienced any setback. On the contrary, at no time has the march of improvement been going on so rapidly as at present. A person who has been absent from the city, even for a few months, has to look around him several times before he realizes just where he is "at," when he stands at the corner of Third and Broadway.

stands at the corner of Third and Broadway.

Another noteworthy feature of South Broadway is the marked increase which has taken place in travel on the street. Even during the past two months there has been a notable change in this respect. At the beginning of the present year there was comparatively little travel on Broadway for a business thoroughfare. comparatively little travel on Broad-way for a business thoroughfare, whereas today the throng of vehicles and pedestrians between First and Third is often so thick as to remind one strongly of Spring street. There is no doubt that during the coming year Broadway will attract a consid-erable proportion of the promenaders, who now make the sidewalk on the west side of Spring street, between First and Third, almost impassable at certain hours of the day.

A PROPOSED GLENDALE ROAD.

Now that a beginning has been made in the opening up of the northeastern section by means of the Pasadena electric railroad, and of the northwestern section by the Bellevue-avenue line, which will be opened tomorrow as far as Prospect Park, plans are being discussed for the opening up of that attractive section lying just north of Los Angeles along the east bank of the Los Angeles river, in which are situated the settlements of Glendale, Tropleo, Burbank, Eagle Rock and Verdugo. This section, with the picturesque mountains on each side of the wide valley, and the placid river running through fields that are always green, is in some respects the most attractive stretch of country immediately surrounding Los Angeles. The landscape in some places reminds one more of an Eastern than a California view. As in the case of other attractive sections, this suburban region has labored hitherto under the great disadvantage of not possessing first-class transportation facilities. In fact, the transportation facilities are quite primitive. Besides the Southern Pacific, which runs only three trains daily each way. In spite of this fact, Glendale and its suburbs have grown rapidly during the past couple of years, and it is now one of the mertiant daily second. A PROPOSED GLENDALE ROAD.

runs only three trains daily each way. In spite of this fact, Glendale and its suburbs have grown rapidly during the past couple of years, and it is now one of the prettiest places of the size in Los Angeles county. The soil around there is remarkably fine. Fruits, both citrus and deciduous, do well and yield good returns.

A correspondent of The Times recently suggested that as soon as North Broadway is opened, steps should be taken to run an electric road into the section north of Los Angeles. The correspondent suggested that if the present Los Angeles and Glendale branch of the Terminal could be secured it would be a good thing. Another and more direct route for an electric road would be from a point on the new Bellevue-avenue line, south of Elysian Park, whence a mule car line was operated until recently, to a point within about half a mile of the northern city limits. A proposition has recently been made to extend this line down the "River Road," whence a bridge could be constructed across the river to Glendale. This route would open up quite a long stretch of good suburban country that is now more or less out of the world. EMPTY HOUSES IN SAN FRAN-CISCO. Los Angeles people who have been in San Francisco recently comment on the number of buildings to let in that big city. The emptiness of the buildings is emphasized by the peculiar habit which they have up there of pasting one or more brilliant "to let" signs in each window, thus making the whole front of the building look like a circus poster and giving strangers the impression that half the town is vacant. Los Angeles people who have been in the impression that half the town is vacant.

In spite of the whistling which is done by the San Francisco papers to keep their courage up, there is no doubt that the City by the Golden Gate is in a bad way. The main hope of San Francisco people now is that a revival of hydraulic mining may be permitted, which would bring back to the city some of its old-time prosperity. The fact is that San Francisco is to a great extent a mining camp. It was built up first by the gold mines of Calfornia, and secondly by the silver mines of Nevada. When the Comstock "petered out" San Francisco was the first 40 feel the effects, and the city has never recovered from it. The fact that most of the men who made their millions from the mines have gone to reside in the East or Europe has added to the downward tendency.

reside in the East or Europe has added to the downward tendency.

It is no wonder that San Francisco people are surprised when they first come to Los Angeles, note the prosperity that prevails on every side and look in vain for those "to let" signs, which are as much the rule in San Francisco as they are the exception in Los Angeles.

SOUTH LOS ANGELES.

In South Los Angeles an improvement association has been formed by the residents and property-owners of the Adams-street and Briswalter tracts for the purpose of securing from the city such conveniences as they are entitled to, such as better police protection, electric street lights, crosswalks, garbage collector, etc. A meeting was held in the office of Grider & Dow at the corner of Twenty-ninth and Central avenue on Tuesday evening, when permanent organization was effected. A meeting will be held at the same place on the first Wednesday evening in November, when a large gathering is expected. The new association starts out well, and its labors are likely to result in good to the residents of that section of the city.

PROPOSED REAL ESTATE CON-SOUTH LOS ANGELES.

PROPOSED REAL ESTATE CON VENTION.

Advices from San Francisco report that the Executive Committee of the State Development Committee has called a general meeting of that body for Tuesday, November 5, to consider projects for increasing the population of the State. A circular letter has been addressed to all the members, asking their opinion as to the advisability of calling a convention of real estate dealers in San Francisco on the same date. The idea is to begin preparations at an early date for the spring carnival season. In this connection David Rich has addressed a long communication to the nature makes to us, is no longer possible."

In this connection David Rich has addressed a long communication to the commuttee, calling attention to the wants of the State. He says:?

"The great resources of California stand in remarkable contrast to the extent of the human wants they are called upon to satisfy. Problems of transportation, higher industrial progress, commerce, which is the bandmaid of the arts, advancement in the arts of government, in the art of life itself, in a word, modern civilization at its best, is a product of numbers only. The energies of California should be devoted to her soil, the peopling of her beautiful vales and hillsides; to make, her bountiful land contribute to the prosperity and happiness of the whole earth, and thus to stand in real and actual relation to the world about her despite the desert and the oceans which physically separate her from the rest of the world. To sit down and rest content beneath our own vine and fig tree, satisfied with the yield which nature makes to us, its no longer possible."

This is all very well from a Northern California standpoint. It is a ern California standpoint. It is a question whether a large attendance of real estate men could be counted on from this part of the State, for the on from this part of the State, for the reason that real estate people here are busy doing just that which Mr. Rich wants them to do, to come together and talk about it. It would, however, no doubt be an excellent thing for the Northern real estate men to come together and "get a move on them."

STATE HIGHWAYS.

The State pride of the traveling Californian frequently receives a shock when he views the excellent roads which are found in many sections of the East, not to speak of the grand highways that are the rule throughout Europe. It is a shame that a State of such wealth, with such grand climate, and the ability to support so dense a population as California, should permit itself to be so far surpassed in the matter of public roads by sections of the country where the natural advantages cannot be ocmpared to those enjoyed here. Connecticut has appropriated $75,000 for roads, and this is to be given in sums of about $900 each to towns that raise an equal sum themselves, and get a third $900 from the county. The improvements must be in accordance with plans and specifications that must be approved by the State Highway Commissioners. This scheme is excellent, as it virtually takes the making of highways out of the hands of incompetent local builders, and places the work under the charge of experts accountable to the State.

It is not stated whether the plan is

It is not stated whether the plan is applicable to incorporated as well as unincorporated towns. From the small size of the appropriation the improvements are probably to be limited to the towns themselves, leaving out the country roads. In this case the plan is only the beginning of a systematic effort in the direction of road building. It is, however, more than has been attempted in California. Commenting on the Connecticut movement the San Francisco Call says:

nowever, more than has been attempted in California. Commenting on the Connecticut movement the San Francisco Call says:

"It will serve, nevertheless, a good purpose as a novel and admirable suggestion. In California we have a bureau of highways, but its duties are limited to the giving of advice to town and county authorities, and no appropriation is made for assisting in the construction of highways. As our bureau is merely an advisory body it can exercise no authority. Alongside the Connecticut plan it appears idle and childish. That the State at large has a deep interest in the proper construction and care of county roads, especially those which constitute main arteries of traffic, cannot be denied.

"It frequently may be observed that such a main highway traversing two or more counties is kept well repaired in one county and neglected in another. Take, for instance, the old stage road running from San Francisco through San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, and San Luis Obispo counties to Santa Barbara. It is abominably cared for in San Francisco, its most important end, splendidly maintained in San Mateo and Santa Clara, and but indifferently kept in Santa Cruz and San Luis Obispo. The State has a very important interest in seeing that all such roads are kept in the best order throughout their entire length.

"This can be accomplished only by some form of State control, and the State-could hardly claim the right to exercise it without assisting in the cost. It can hardly be doubted that neglect of the country roads in California.

"This can be accomplished only by some form of State control, and the State could hardly claim the right to exercise it without assisting in the cost. It can hardly be doubted that neglect of the country roads in California has operated materially to strengthen the monopoly of rail transportation. We can well imagine what a great difference it would make to the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys if superbly contructed turnpikes traversed the length of those plains. It might be advisable for the State to designate certain main roads as State highways and keep them in perfect order, paying a part of the cost and requiring the countries affected to pay the remaining the same constructed by the contractor, P. OLD-TIME IMPROVEMENTS. Apropos of the difficulty which is ex-perienced nowadays in carrying through public improvements of ad-mitted necessity, it may be mentioned that they did these things differently in Los Angeles in the olden times. J. W. Potts recently gave The Times some interesting information regarding early improvements made by him, long before teresting information regarding early improvements made by him, long before the real estate boom was thought of. The first thing Mr. Potts did in Los Angeles in the way of street improvement was to open Los Angeles street to a width of seventy-five feet from First to below Boyd. This was about 1889. A brick building had to be torn down on First street, and a cut was made through an orchard and vineyard in which were trees that produced orarges to the value of $100 annually. This, Mr. Potts says, was the first street opened in the city through private property. It was opened, without any aid from the city, financially or otherwise. Mr. Potts then commenced grading in the hill section. Second street was graded from Hill to Grand avenue; three-fourths of Temple street, from Broadway to Bunker Hill avenue; Broadway, from Temple to the southeast corner of the Courthouse grounds, while Hill, Olive, Grand avenue and Bunker Hill avenue were graded so as to be passable to the top of the hill. Besides this the west had of house grounds, while Hill, Olive, Grand avenue and Bunker Hill avenue were graded so as to be passable to the top of the hill. Besides this, the west half of Castelar street was graded from Temple to Sand street. Mr. Potts did all this work with his own money, at a cost of $40,000, without asking a cent from the city—not even as much as the surveying of a street.

It would be a good thing for Los Angeles if we had a few more people here today endowed with the same spirit of enterprise that was shown by Mr. Potts, Mr. Beaudry and others, in the early days of Los Angeles, when there was not one-tenth of the inducement for the liberal expenditure of money that exists now.

MORTGAGES AND RELEASES.

MORTGAGES AND RELEASES. The Investor publishes the following statement, showing the mortgages and releases in Los Angeles county for the week ending October 19:

NEW YORK VALUES.

Prices of real estate in New York have reached such a high point that some people are wondering where the end will be. An Eastern journal has the following interesting remarks on prices of real estate in the great metropolis:

"Now that real estate has reached such disry quotations it seems strange to look back on prices within recent memory. Here, for instance, is the Trinity building, corner of Broadway and Thames street. The lot cost $150,000, which then seemed an enormous price, and yet it was only $25 the square foot. That lot is now worth $1.500,000, and the present building will soon be demolished and replaced by a sky-scraper. Two years ago Jefferson Levy sold a pibl in Cedar street (west of Broadway.), to the Fidelty and Casualty Company at the rate of $50 the square foot. Some considered this very high, but the same lot would now bring an advance of 50 per cent. The above mentioned sale at $244 the square foot is at the rate of $9.60,000 the acre, and as this was once the residence of Aron Burr (before he bought Richmond Hill) how astonishing would such a price have appeared to him—for in his day all New York could have been bought for the cost of an acre at the present time. This, however, is not the extreme of land value here, for the corner of Wall and Broad streets, now occupied by J. Plerpoint Morgan, cost its present owners at the rate of $14,000,000 an acre. And this was once farm land.

STREET ASSESSMENTS.

octoper 23, to Frank A. Gibson, trustee, to whom payments, should be made at the First National Bank. This comprises the territory south of Eleventh street, west of Figueroa, north of Washington, and east of Cherry, Bond, Sentous and Blaine streets. All assessments unpaid thirty days from above date draw 10 per cent. interest ments unpaid thirty days from above date draw 10 per cent. Interest per annum. This sewer system was constructed under the act of March 18, 1885, and not under the bond act.
Last week reference was made to the opening and widening and extending of Twelfth street into Alvarado street. As this assessment becomes delinquent November 14, the attention of property-holders assessed is again called to the matter.

Cold produces pains; carelessness, scanty clothing and draughts bring on the cold—avoid them.

Pains in the joints and muscles are rheumatic pains, produced often by exposure and cold, and cured often by the moderate use of Joy's Vegetable Sergengilla.

Pains in the bowels may mean a disordered liver, a cold in the bowels or chronic constipation; if you use Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla these pains will disappear and mean nothing.

Pains in the stomach spring from disordered digestion and spring out again when you use Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Away with substitutes; they fill the coffers of the druggists and that's all. Headaches, pains over the brow, pains at the back of head, pains on the top of the head or temple are relieved and completely cured by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Pains in the shoulders usually mean a torpid liver, but this torpid liver can be made active by the use of Jov's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and the pains will cease.

If you wish to use Joy's Vegetable Sarsap-arilia ask your druggist for it. If he at-tempts to substitute leave his place and try another druggist. This is certainly fair,

FOR ART LOVERS AND MEN AND WOMEN OF CULTURE.

Moran's

Magnificent Masterpiece.

The attention of connoisseurs and critics in the world of art, and of all people of culture and refinement, is especially called to the fact that the lithographic reproduction of this celebrated painting was made under the special personal direction of the artist Moran himself. Every one of the twenty-one component colors used in the printing was first approved by the artist before being put upon the lithographic stone.

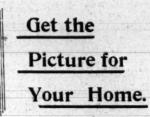

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, that wonderland of the world, pictured by an artist whose conception was striking, resistless, grand. Thomas Moran's painting, "THE GRAND CANYON OF THE COLORADO," was the artistic triumph and sensation of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The faithfulness of the artist in picturing the awful grandeur of the gorge; the delightful delicacy with which he has touched the rolling clouds of mist; the masterly manner in which he has handled Nature's coloring; that melodrama of flame and gold, and rose and wine and azure, is altogether 19th Century Genius.

It is only high genius that has made possible the reproduction of such a splendid work of art, without the loss of a single sun glint; with all the heights and depths of shade luminously portrayed-a reproduction so real that the master whose hand guided the brush-strokes on the original canvas says of it, in effect: "As perfect as perfect can be."

It is this great lithographic triumph, this magnificent reproduction of Moran's famous picture, 22 % x38 % inches in size, that THE TIMES has arranged to supply to subscribers. It is a picture with a theme grand enough and an execution beautiful enough to make it worthy a place on any wall-in any home.
